BATTLE RAGING AT NOON

AMERICANS WATCH FIGHT

Douglas, Ariz., April 17.—At 6:30 this morning 1000 Mexican federals, under Col .Rinaldo Diaz, nephew of the president, attacked the defenses of Agua Prieta. They opened a terrific fire with rifles and machine guns. The rebels under Gen. Garcia number about 2000, according to Garcia's statement. The United States cavalry at Douglas was today reinforced by two troops and have been stationed along the boundary line to prevent the Americans from lining up to watch the battle and taking chances on being hurt.

After a terrific exchange of bullets the federals retired to reform and recommenced the attack at 9 o'clock. During the interval wagon-loads of wounded were brought here and the Red Cross attendants say it is impossible to estimate how many were killed or wounded.

Early in the engagement an American named Oscar Goll was slightly wounded by a bullet while on Mexican soil. Several buildngs in Douglas were riddled by machine gun fire, but although two of them were school houses no one was hit, the pupils having been sent home to lessen the danger.

Despite the orders of the cavalry the house tops are jammed with spectators. The rebels used sharpshooters to silence the machine guns by picking off the guners. As fast as a gun is brought into action Garcia sets a group of crack shots to work to silence it.

An American, J. C. Edwards, leads in this sharpshooting and the method has proved extremely effective so far.

After bullets had pierced the clothes of American troopers and one horse had been shot, the United States cavalry was ordered to take shelter behind buildings. Just before noon Red Lopez, the rebel chief, made a tour of his trenches, and reported 9 killed and 14 wounded up to that hour.

He says the federal loss is very heavy.

Late in the afternoon the firing slackened perceptibly and the report went around that the federals had again withdrawn.

The insurgents took advantage of the loaf by sending a provost guard to confiscate all the liquor in the towns and it was at once dumped into the gutter of Agua Prieta.

A courier rode into Douglas at noon and reported to Colonel Shunk that G. Garcia, the rebel commander, estimated the federal loss at 75. Garcia admits 20 rebels have been killed so far and 50 injured.

Washington, April 17.—The Mexican federals and insurrectionists were allowed one more chance today by the United States before active steps are taken toward intervention, and it was expected here that within 24 hours the question would be decided for the present at least. That this is the administration attitude was revealed today in the orders sent to the American troops at Douglas, Ariz., where the citizens are hourly expecting a desperate battle to begin across the border. Assurances were received from both federals and insurrectos that they will prevent the endangering of American lives during the coming attack on Agua Prieta. President Taft today ordered that full opportunity be given them to prove their sincerity, and American troops will not cross the border during the fight. In the event that either federals or insurrectos disregard the warning of the United States and violate their pledges, President Taft, according to his view, may be compelled to act.

Col. Shunk, commanding at Douglas, since the arrival of additional cavalry, was ordered to prevent citizens of Douglas from needlessly exposing themselves and to disarm any individuals or bands attempting to cross the line into Mexico. Federals

An unknown colored man, with his throat cut from ear to ear, and his body horribly mangled, lying alongside the tracks of the Panhandle railroad, near Hanover, was the ghastly find made by a Panhandle section man about five o'clock Sunday morning. All indications point to a murder having been committed. The news of the finding of the dead body of the Negro soon spread and in a short time a large crowd of the curious had assembled.

Coroner Wyiarch was notified and that official left on the first train for Hanover. On his arrival there he viewed the body which was brought to Newark by Mr. Jones of Criss Bros. & Jones' undertaking establishment, where it was prepared for interment.

The Coroner found that in addition to the man having been crushed through the hips, where he had apparently been struck by a train, his throat was cut from ear to ear. The cariold arteries and others had been cleanly severed as though done by a sharp knife or a razor, but whether he had committed suicide or was murdered is not known, although all the indications point to the latter theory.

On the person of the man, who was roughly attired, three interurban railroad tickets, good either way from Louisville, Ky., to New Albany, Ind., were found, but aside from a prescription for rheumatism, which had been made out to William Crawford, and which was signed by a railroad trackman, there was absolutely nothing to indicate the identity of the man.

The dead man is described as being about five feet and eight inches in height, weight about 156 pounds, and aged about 50 years. He is very dark, with a mustache and about ten days' growth of beard. When found he was attired in a soiled suit of dark gray clothes, wore a leather cap and laced shoes, somewhat worn.

The body will be taken to Hanover Tuesday and buried in the cemetery there.

WETS AND DRYS WILL CLASH THIS WEEK OVER THE CROSSER INITIATIVE BILL IN SENATE

Columbus, O., April 17.—One last effort to pacify warring legislative factions and insure action on progressive measures, is to be tried in the senate this week, according to authentic information, Saturday. The compromise will have to do with the liquor question, but the liquor element was declared not to be directly involved. It is understood, rather, that Lieutenant Governor Hugh Nichols is the moving spirit, driven by the desperate hope that there is yet time to make good with the people on platform measures.

The compromise will propose to amend the Crosses initiative and referendum bill, so that cities may be given the right to vote on the question of whether they shall have saloons or not. The bill has passed the house, has been amended by the municipal affairs committee of the senate and should be reached for consideration Tuesday. It gives the people of cities the right to initiate legislation and also to act upon all ordinances that have passed council. An amendment to specify the existence or non-existence of saloons as one of the things upon which the people could act, therefore, would not be a far cry. The plan is to have the amendment presented on the floor of the senate.

If such an amendment were put into the bill it would have to go back to the house, of course, for concurrence, and it is figured that it is too important a bill to be allowed to die by reason of carrying the liquor question. In other words the house progressives who are dry, it is thought, would rather allow the liquor question to go in, than risk the death of the bill, knowing the preponderance of wet sentiment in the senate. This is the basis of reasoning employed by those who conceived the idea in the senate, including, it is understood, the lieutenant governor.

The whole affair, then, is to be a matter of expediency and not a wet and dry question, it is being argued. This is the viewpoint of Mr. Nichols, according to his friends, who declare that he is determined that the senate shall be brought, by some means, into line for redemption of the party platform. One of the Nichols contingent in the senate declared last Thursday that Governor Harmon was not averse to trying what now seems to be the last hope of getting ction from the senate.

The same senator said that the liberal element was not boosting the plan, but of course would be glad to accept the result if the plan went through. He even said that some of the liberals had not been apprised as yet of the contemplated scheme.

The drys will fight the step, as a matter of course, but they can do little against the wet sentiment of the house. The fight, therefore, would be waged in the house, where they have been twice successful in fighting off the amendment to the Rose law. It is conceded that the third fight, if it comes, will be somewhat different, in that it will involve the life or death of a bill which the progressives earnestly and fervently desire.

If the senate plan succeeds, the fight in the house, of course, will follow. But the wets will have perhaps a new weapon in their favor, and that will be the Dean saloon limitation bill, which has passed the senate and is now in the house temperance committee. It will be reported out on Tuesday morning and may come to a vote before the end of the week. It provides that there shall not be in any locality more than one saloon for each 500 of the population. If this is a law by the time the amended Crosser bill gets back to the house for concurrence it will be an argument in favor of the saloon element since limited saloons wouldn't be such a big problem as an unlimited number would.

RECIPROCITY DEBATE IN HOUSE OPENED BY DEMOCRATS

Washington, April 17.—The opening arguments for and against the Canadian reciprocity bill were made in the house Saturday in two striking speeches.

Claude Kitchin of North Carolina, one of the leading Democratic speakers, addressed the house for three hours in favor of the measure, arraigning the Republican argument of protection for the farmer and characterizing it as "humbug."

Following him Asher C. Hinds of Maine, for 16 years the parliamentary clerk of the house, made his first speech as a new member of the body, and aligned himself in opposition to the treaty in an address devoted to the support of protection for the farmers of the nation. The reciprocity treaty, he said, threatened national prosperity in threatening to take away from the farming communities the protection to their products necessary to their continued prosperity and development.

It was a day full of interesting debate and incident. Mr. Kitchin, skillful in repartee, drew frequent interruptions from the Republican side and kept the house in a turmoil. He paced up and down the main aisle of the house, arraigning the leaders on the Republican side who have fought for the protective principle, paying particular protection to Representative Dalzeil of Pennsylvania.

He pictured President Taft as coming to the Democrats on bended knees to solicit their support. The success of the president's desire for reciprocity with Canada depended upon the Democrats, he said.

"Oh, my friends," said Mr. Kitchin, with eloquent gesture, "how the vicissitudes of American politics humiliate the pride of even a president. We were impossible obstructionists and we utterly failed in anything that was sensible; and yet before that libel upon a great political organization is cold upon his lips, the desperate necessities of a discredited administration send this president upon bended knees, praying before this Democratic majority.

Interruptions from insurgent Republican members injected much interesting debate into the Kitchin speech. He was asked if he would vote for free lumber, free sugar, less protection on cotton goods and like reductions of the tariff.

"I will vote for free lumber," said Mr. La Follette of Washington, whom Mr. Kitchin had charged with representing the lumber interests, "if you will vote for free sugar."

"All right," said Mr. Kitchin, "I'll vote for both of them."

"Will you vote to put all trust controlled articles on the free list?" demanded Mr. Lenroot of Wisconsin.

"Yes," said Mr. Kitchin, "and within four or five days we will bring in a free list will that will give you all that opportunity."

Mr. Kitchin expressed pleasure at seeing the insurgents "dancing around the fires with the distinguished stand-patters of protection, singing hosannas and hallelujahs to the farmer."

DISLOCATED NECK IN VIEWING EASTER HAT.

Eli, Neb., April 17.—Miss Elsie Stewart yesterday succeeded in seeing the back of her head, but she dislocated her neck and tore several ligaments in her neck. She is in a hospital at Omaha.

Miss Stewart was standing before a mirror, trying on her new Easter hat. Backing up to the mirror she endeavored to get a view of the back of the millinery. She got the view, but her head refused to right itself. Then something snapped. She continued to look backward in great agony until a physician arrived and sent her to the hospital.

CHARGES

That Railroads Are Being Held Up by Postoffice Department for $20,000,000 Annually.

New York, April 17.—Charges that the postoffice department is at present holding up the railroads of the country for over $20,000,000 annually, were made today by President Ralph Peters, of the Long Island railroad and vice chairman of the committee on railway pay, representing over 200,000 miles of road. He says that if the government insists on regulating rates the roads will insist that it is subject to the same ruling and rates enforced against business.

Peters claim of holdups comes up in low rates for mail transportation, running special cars for mail work and the dead-heading of mail clerks and officials.

METHODS

Of Obtaining Evidence in Schenk Trial Will Be Attacked by the Woman's Attorneys.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 17.—A shadow of suspicion has been thrown on the case against Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk, of Wheeling, which comes up for retrial next Thursday at Wheeling. The fact that the Gilbert Perkins Detective Agency worked up all the evidence against Mrs. Schenk and the arrest of detectives for the alleged attempt to blackmail Millionaire Strong of Erie, in connection with the desecrating of the Scott mausoleum at Erie last February, has caused attorneys for Mrs. Schenk to investigate the evidence brought against Mrs. Schenk and they will seek to produce evidence that will controvert or discredit some of the alleged facts adduced.

There is only one part of the case they will not touch on and that is the visits of Mrs. Schenk to Dan Z. Phillips, the piano salesman, and his automobile riding with Mrs. Schenk which brought on the suit for divorce.

The evidence of Alice Zoeckler, the Pittsburg woman, who was in the employ of the Perkins Agency, is alleged to be part of the discovery that will make one of the biggest sensations in the case.

CIRCUIT COURT WILL DECIDE DOVER'S APPLICATION FOR BAIL A WEEK FROM NEXT SATURDAY

Testimony Submitted This Morning in Mandamus and Habeas Corpus Cases, and Briefs Will Be Submitted on Which Court Will Decide the Issue.

The question of admitting Art Dover, Edgar Owens and the others now confined in the Licking county jail, charged with murder in the first degree in connection with the lynching last summer, is again in abeyance, and will be until the circuit court finally decides the matter April 29th, to which time the court adjourned this morning, having come to Newark this morning for the purpose of hearing testimony in the mandamus and habeas corpus proceedings that have come before this court in this case since Friday last.

Judges Voorhees and Powell were present, Judge Shields being the absent judge.

Art Dover was present in court with his attorney, Edward Kibler Sr., while Jones & Jones and J. R. Fitzgibbon were also at the counsel table, representing others of the men confined in prison. Prosecuting Attorney P. B. Smythe, Attorneys W. H. Miller and Seth McMillen were on the opposite side of the case. The Bolton case at Mt. Vernon had been postponed until Tuesday morning on account of this hearing before the circuit court.

The legal battle was on as soon as the court called the case, both Mr. Smythe and Mr. Kibler being on their feet at the same time.

The prosecutor stated that on Saturday evening a motion in the mandamus proceedings against Judge Seward had been filed by him, and he asked the court to hear this motion the first thing. To this Mr. Kibler strenuously objected, claiming that the court was sitting to hear the proceedings in habeas corpus, and that he had never seen the motion, bringing forth from Mr. Smythe the retort that neither had he seen their petition.

Judge Voorhees informed counsel that the entire matter would be taken under advisement by the court and that what was to be done now was to get the matters on record and before the court, and that in whatever order it was done the rights of neither side would suffer in the final disposition of the case.

It was here determined, upon suggestion of J. Howard Jones and J. R. Fitzgibbon that the record in the Dover case should be made as applying to Edgar Owens and the other men interested.

After some further legal sparring between the opposing lawyers, the court decided to hear testimony and Clerk E. M. Larason, Judge C. W. Seward and Sheriff Frank E. Slabaugh were sworn.

Mr. Larason was asked by Mr. Kibler if bonds had not been offered by him Saturday for Dover, in the sum of $2500 in each case, with sureties and if he had not told him (Kibler) that these sureties were sufficient, to which the clerk replied that he had, but had not formally approved them, as he would have to look up the question if the property owned by the sureties was in their own or their wives' names.

The bondsmen came into court and testified that they owned in their own names property of many times the value of the amount of the bond.

Mr. Larason identified the two indictments, each charging Dover with first degree murder, and said that no trial had been had on either. He also identified the warrants issued on these indictments, and the sheriff's returns.

Mr. Kibler: "Mr. Clerk, why did you change your mind about the sufficiency of these bondsmen since Saturday?"

This was objected to by Smythe and the court said the clerk had given an explanation of this.

The clerk then read from the docket the refusal of Dover's application for bail last November by Judge Nicholas, and stated that this was before the trials of Watha, McKinley, Timmons or Cleveland.

It was also brought out that Dover made a second application for bail on April 1st to Judge Seward, after all these cases had been tried and all pleas made, which was refused, and that Watha, McKinley, Timmons and Cleveland had been indicted for the same crime as Dover, and were found guilty of, or pleaded guilty to manslaughter. Also that Dover had never been called upon to plead to the second indictment.

Documentary evidence was introduced showing the petition in mandamas and entry showing its allowance, the entry of the court in second application for bail, which Judge Seward refused on April 1.

Sheriff Slabaugh, examined by Mr. Kibler, testified that he received a writ of mandamus last Friday about 2 o'clock and served Judge Seward personally with the petition and summons about 2:30 o'clock that afternoon; that he had not yet made a return; that the return day was April 24.

To all of this Prosecutor Smythe objected, which objections were overruled and exceptions taken, as he wanted the record to show everything that was done.

It was agreed that Dover had been in jail continuously since August 10 last.

J. Howard Jones was called and testified that he was in the court room last Saturday and heard Mr. Kibler make application to admit Dover to bail, in accordance with the writ of mandamus, and that Judge Seward said he wouldn't do it at that time.

C. C. Cooper said he had made three transcripts of the testimony before the grand jury against Dover, which had been turned over to Prosecutor Smythe. He still had stenographic notes.

One of these transcripts was asked for and the court was requested to make such an order. Mr. Smythe objected to this testimony becoming a part of the record in this case. He said he was willing to turn over a transcript for the use of the court but not for counsel on the other side and it was decided to do this.

Judge C. W. Seward was examined by Mr. Miller and testified that he was resident common pleas judge and had held court Saturday when Mr. Kibler had made application to admit Dover to bail.

"I refused to take the matter up at that time because I had already refused to admit Dover to bail and so had Judge Nicholas."

Cross-examined by Mr. Kibler: "The only reason I gave you last Saturday was that the sheriff had not yet made his return."

This closed the testimony and Judge Voorhees asked that matter be submitted on briefs by counsel. Mr. Kibler said he had his brief ready and Mr. Smythe wanted it submitted to him so that he could answer it.

The court said that the brief of Mr. Smythe should be submitted to the court at Millersburg next Wednesday, but as it was pointed out that Bolton case would occupy his time wholly, it was decided that the briefs should be sent to Judge Voorhees at Coshocton next Saturday and the decision will be handed down on April 29.

BOY BLOWS OFF LITTLE GIRL'S HEAD WITH GUN

McConnelsville, O., April 17.—The head of little Veldine Hiatt, aged 10 years, was practically blown off and the breast and throat were riddled with shot at the family home in Pennsville at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon when Raymond Ellis, aged 11, her companion at play, picked up a shotgun he didn't know was loaded and fired point-blank at the little girl.

Several companions witnessed the tragedy, but escaped injury. The father, Clair Hiatt, picked the child from the ground and she died instantly in his arms.

The little girl and the Ellis boy and the girl's two cousins, Clyde and Winifred Williams, had been playing together all the afternoon. They finally went to the woodshed. The gun had been used to shoot hawks, which have been particularly thick in this vicinity since early spring, and had been left standing in the shed.

All the children were playing a few feet apart when the Ellis lad entered the woodshed, picked up the gun and staggering under its weight, partly placed it to his shoulder when the trigger was pulled and the gun exploded. The lad, unconscious of the awful result, was staggered by explosion and the little victim fell to the ground. Her father rushed from his wife's bedside on hearing the explosion to find the child lying on the ground. Her little cousins had screamed and ran from the scene.

The little form was gathered in the father's arms, but she was dead when he picked her up.

The Hiatt home is just a short distance from town and the Ellis home is less than a quarter of a mile from the scene of the tragedy.

The entire community was shocked by the tragedy. Hundreds of neighbors called at the home after it had become generally known.

The mother of the little victim was dangerously ill of appendicitis and arrangements were being made to have her admitted to a hospital for an operation. The news was a severe shock to her and it is feared will result fatally.

The shot appeared to center at the throat of the little girl and tore through the flesh, leaving the head hanging to the body by a few shreds. The face was also penetrated as was the chest. The flesh was burned by powder.

The Ellis boy almost collapsed when he realized that a human life had been sacrificed by his thoughtless deed. As he looked onto the unconscious bleeding form of the little victim he cried hysterically and has cried incessantly since the accident.

CORONER SAYS GIRL SUICIDED

MINISTER THREATENED

Cleveland, April 17. — Although relatives protest that Miss Dora Haines, aged 31, died of heart failure Deputy Coroner Droege last night declared he is convinced that the young woman took her own life by hanging because of her fear that she would be arrested on a bootlegging warrant issued by Minerva authorities. He will render a verdict of suicide.

Miss Haines was one of five persons named in warrants issued recently by Mayor Pennock of Minerva on complaint of Rev. J. C. Finefrock, pastor of an Evangelical Lutheran church there. Illegal sales of liquor were charged in all the warrants.

Shortly after the arrest of Miss Haines' brother, Douglas, and her father, James F. Haines, the young woman left Minerva for Cleveland. In this city she visited her sister, Mrs. Mary Anderson. Saturday morning Mrs. Anderson and her mother went to the W. & L. E. depot to meet a relative and on returning home the girl was dead. They contend that they found her on the sofa with her head hanging over the end. Coroner Droege, who was called, found the marks of a rope on her neck that had been hidden by a high collar.

The girl's father came to Cleveland from Minerva in response to word of his daughter's death. Both he and his son-in-law, F. R. Anderson, were positive that the girl's death was due to heart trouble. The death of Miss Haines has added to the hatred which the "wets" of Minerva have exhibited toward the "drys" since the crusade against bootlegging was started four weeks ago.

Rev. Mr. Finefrock, chairman of the executive committee of the Minerva law and order league, because of his position has ben prominent in the dry fight. As a result of this prominence he has received threats which, he admitted, have caused him to go armed.

"I have taken precautions," he said last night.

The last threat which was made against Rev. Mr. Finefrock reached him on a postal card. This card he turned over to the federal authorities and efforts to find the sender are being made.

The crusade, which has stirred the town of Minerva as it was never before aroused, was started at a secret meeting of those who formed the law and order league four weeks ago. At that time it was purposed to engage detectives and trace the selling of liquor in the territory which has been voted dry. Two detectives were employed.

The pair visited Minerva and obtained the evidence upon which Rev. Mr. Finefrock based his complaint, when he swore to the warrants before Mayor Pennock.

Douglas Haines and William Donohue were brought to trial and convicted. They were released upon payment of heavy fines. Miss Dora Haines, who also was accused of selling liquor illicitly, left Minerva.

The activity of the drys and wets has resulted in the forming of factions that are openly hostile, and residents of the town do not hesitate to express the belief that violence is likely to follow.

HUNDRETH ANNIVERSARY OF NATIONAL PIKE

At several points along the line of the old National Pike, [illegible] the people are starting to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of the beginning of work on this thoroughfare. It was the first piece of roadmaking the national government undertook. As early as 1806 congress [illegible] the survey of a line [illegible] on across the Alleghenies to the Ohio valley for the use of immigrants to the west, but it was 1811 before the actual construction [illegible]. [illegible] roadways led from Baltimore and Washington to Cumberland, on the Potomac, and at that point the government took up the work of constructing a highway to Wheeling on the Ohio. [illegible] was called the Cumberland road [illegible] as the National Pike and was designed to [illegible]

[illegible] was extended [illegible] Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, [illegible] throughout its entire [illegible] Clay, Benton [illegible] of the western [illegible] thoroughfare [illegible] Washington. The inns [illegible] at convenient distances [illegible] were well patronized and many of them remained long after the railway stepped in to rob the pike of much of its old glory.

The National road figures in one of the most picturesque episodes of western immigration. Washington suggested a thoroughfare of this sort before he became president. Clay was one of the leaders in urging appropriations to it, and thus became known as the father of the road. Benton supported the [illegible] and the work which he saw done [illegible] inspired him to induce congress to survey the route for the Santa Fe trail. When it was opened to Wheeling it reduced the cost of transportation of freight between the Atlantic coast and the Ohio valley to a third of the former rate. For several decades the National pike was the scene of the westward march of the American empire. The old roadway, much of which is still used locally, contributed a thrilling chapter to the story of western expansion.

Home From Trip Through West and Middle West and Says He is Feeling Bully.

New York, April 17.—Former President Roosevelt returned last night from a seven weeks tour of the West and Middle West. As he stepped off a train from Chicago he came into contact with a crowd of outgoing Easterners, many of whom greeted him with cheers. Nearly 200 persons followed the colonel to the carriage door and many grasped his hand just as he jumped into an automobile to be whisked away to Oyster Bay.

Col. Roosevelt's face was tanned by the western suns and he said he felt bully. He refused to discuss the reciprocity issue, prospects in the west or his own plans.

IN THE SPRING EVERYONE NEEDS S.S.S.

Spring is the season when the blood is weakest, and our systems least responsive to the demands of nature. It is the time of fickle appetites, poor digestion, lack of energy, bodily fatigue, and many other systemic disturbances which warn us that we need a tonic.

Everyone who needs a tonic needs a blood purifier, for it is the weakened and impure condition of the circulation that is responsible for the run-down constitution. A great many so called tonics are mere nerve stimulants, often producing instantaneous exhilarating effects, but acting with decided injury on the system later. If your system is weak and depleted you can only tone it up by supplying an increased amount of nourishment, and this can come only through pure, rich blood. Any tonic which does not purify the blood is dangerous, because it leaves the impurities in the circulation to constantly prey upon the health.

S. S. S. is the greatest of all tonics because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers; and it is the one medicine you can rely upon to supply the system with the best tonic effects and at the same time thoroughly purify the blood. Everyone needs S. S. S. in the Spring, because by building up the system now they may avoid serious illness later on. Many people have put off using a tonic until the system became so weakened it could not resist disease, and have paid for the neglect with a spell of debilitating illness. S.S.S. is nature's ideal tonic; made entirely of healthful roots, herbs and barks. It tones up the stomach and digestion, and contributes to strong, robust health. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.

S. S. S. has been used extensively in our family as a Spring tonic, given to both young and old, and always with the best results. It thoroughly cleanses the blood of all impurities, at the same time it builds up the general health, gives appetite, strength and energy. We have given it to our children as intimated, and found it to be non-injurious to the system and always capable of purifying the blood and restoring health.
MRS. CLARA DAUBERT.
Schuylkill Haven, Pa.

My blood was weak and impure last Spring, and I was troubled with a general letting down of the system. Under the fine tonic and blood purifying effects of S. S. S. my appetite improved, I increased in strength and weight and my blood was restored to its normal healthy condition. ORRIN A. ROBINS.

GET READY FOR THE ICE MAN

Coal men and ice men are rejoicing, the former at the fine winter season they have had and the latter at the prospect of warm summer approaching. Now that we have had our Easter storm, the sun is bound to shine and will doubtless soon make things hot and sultry and delightful for the ice men. They anticipate an early and rich harvest. The coal dealers surely have had a most prosperous season. And thus it is that the men who provide winter and summer comforts are pleased with the past, present and future.

NEWARK WON BOTH GAMES FROM FLINT

IN THE TWO CONTESTS HOME TEAM MADE 25 HITS AND 21 RUNS.

The New Men Secured in the Recent Big Deal Show Up Well and Fans Seem Satisfied.

A small crowd was present Saturday afternoon at Wehrle Park to see the Molders in the first of a two-game series with the Flint, Mich., team, and they were well repaid by the work done by the home team, and the form shown by the men recently purchased from Zanesville who took part in the game. Second Baseman Prysock's batting was a gladsome revelation, as he got three two-baggers out of four times up, and Walker, at first, handled everything that came his way. Gelb also hit well and caught a pretty game, handling both Taylor and Longmore in faultless style. In fact the entire team played a game which would indicate that the players will be ready for the opening clash next Thursday afternoon with the Portsmouth champions, as the men are rapidly rounding into form.

On Sunday a large crowd was out to see the home team treat the visiting pitchers roughly, while their defense was absolutely impregnable, with the consequence that the Flint team was unable to score, and the home team piled up nine runs by hard and opportune hitting and good base running. Catcher McConnell's batting was easily one of the features of an otherwise listless game, being so on account of the lopsidedness of the score.

GAHANNA ROBBERS PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Toledo, O., April 17.—Handcuffed together in pairs and closely guarded by a dozen or more United States marshals and policemen, ten reputed safe robbers, arrested in this city, were taken from the county jail to the federal building in a patrol wagon and arraigned before United States Commissioner Gaines, who postponed the hearing until Monday, April 24. The men are charged in a blanket warrant with having been implicated in the robbery of the postoffice at Gahanna, O., just over the Licking county line, a few weeks ago, and a number of them are suspected of having been the perpetrators of similar crimes in other sections of Ohio and in Indiana and Michigan. The names of the men arrested are, according to the warrants, John Norton, alias "St. Louis Slim," C. R. Hamilton, alias "Ham," Dempsey, Felix Brock and Frank Brock, brothers, George, alias "Slim" Carruthers, Joe Scherrey, William Hamilton of Boston, Earl Redmond, Dave Kelley of Marion, O., and John Conroy.

MERCHANTS WILL BE ASKED TO GIVE EMPLOYES CHANCE TO WITNESS OPENING GAME

The baseball season will be inaugurated in this city Thursday, when Portsmouth, champions of 1910, come here for opening day.

No definite plans have been arranged for the opening, but it is probable that the customary parade will be given and there will undoubtedly be a large attendance at Wehrle Park.

Merchants will not be asked to close their places of business, but it has been suggested that they give their employes an opportunity of seeing the game by giving them the afternoon off. This would surely be appreciated by the employes and doubly so by the baseball officials. If the weather is right there ought to be a record-breaking crowd out to see the boys in action.

Game called promptly at 3 p. m.

ADDIE JOSS' GREAT FEAT AS A PITCHER

Credited with Pitching No-Hit Games Without a Man Reaching First Base.

(Washington Post.)

In the death of Addie Joss, reported in dispatches from his home town, Toledo, Ohio, baseball loses one of the very few men who have pitched more than one no-hit game, and one of the still fewer who will go down into history as having gone through nine innings without allowing a man to reach first base. There are only four of these latter, but two of whom accomplished the feat under present day conditions—the 60-foot distance and the four-ball restriction.

Oddly enough, both of these latter were teammates at the time of Joss' death. The other one, Cy Young, undoubtedly will close his major league career as did the man who died yesterday, a member of the Cleveland team. Young pitched one no-hit game for Cleveland, but it was when the city was in the National League. He pitched two no-hit games in the American, both while with Boston. In 1904, with the Athletics as his opponents, he accomplished the feat of shutting them out without letting a man make first base.

Joss never pitched a game for any major league club other than the Naps, and necessarily wore their uniform each time that he broke into the no-hit list. On each occasion, also, the White Sox were his victims, and in each game the score was 1 to 0. The second of these performances will be the more easily recalled, as it occurred less than a year ago, on April 20. White was opposed to Joss. Three Sox made first base, two on passes and one on an error by Bradley. Most of the balls hit were easy infield grounders, Joss himself throwing out ten men, while Lajoie, who was playing first base at the time, had nineteen putouts.

In October, 1908, Joss performed the feat that gave him greater claim to fame. He didn't allow a hit or give a pass, and there were no errors against him, and yet he was fortunate to escape going into overtime to win or lose his game. Walsh was opposed, and he struck out 15 men, and was never hit to any extent. But in the third inning, after Birmingham had singled, Walsh caught him off first. He threw to Isbell, and the latter, with an easy play before him, hit Birmingham on the head as he threw to second. Birmingham got to third before the ball was recovered and scored when Walsh and his catcher, Schreck, got crossed, a spitter going past the backstop to the stand.

Among ball players there is no man whose death is learned with greater regret. Joss was a high-class man off the field, as well as on, and a clean liver, as well as a clean player. He was one of the crop of youngsters who helped to build up the American League and to elevate the game. Armour brought him from the old Interstate League to Cleveland in 1902, and until the last year or two, when he had trouble with his arm, he was always a successful and a hard-working twirler. He had not only great speed and a fast breaking curve, but a very effective pitching motion, bringing the ball from behind him with a complete body swing and having it on the batter almost before the latter got sight of it.

One of Joss' feats was the striking out of Herman Schaefer, now with Washington, four times in succession, without allowing the batter even to foul a ball. It happened in Detroit. On the day previous, in Chicago, Schaefer had been rushed into the breach much as he was here on the opening day, and had won a game for his club. White was pitching; the score was 1 to 0 in his favor, two were out in the ninth, and O'Leary was on first base. The pitcher was due to bat, and, as a forlorn hope, it was decided to swing in a substitute hitter.

Schaefer had been on the bench for about a month, having broken a couple of fingers in a game in New York. His hand was still bandaged, but he had always been good against left-hand pitching, and he was sent up. He stood away from the plate, with his bat held carelessly, as though he intended to let one or two go by. But as White started to deliver Schaefer set. The ball was right over, and the German hit it it to the left field bleachers. Jake Stahl once hit one farther, but that was the only drive on the old Chicago park that ever beat this home run. It made the score 2 to 1, and decided the game.

Naturally the man who hit the ball was a hero when he got home the next day, and it was necessary to continue him in the game. Joss was good that day, and attended to Schaefer, as told above. It is characteristic of the regard in which the Cleveland pitcher stood, both with rival players and the public of a city that hates Cleveland and everything connected therewith, that his third and fourth strikeouts brought him only cheers, and that the victim to this day regards the incident as the best of the stories of his diamond career.

Joss spent his boyhood days in Juneau, Wis., where he as an amateur first attracted attention, but had lived in Toledo all through his professional career, which really began in that city. At the close of his baseball life he intended to enter newspaper work there. For several years, in the winter, he had written baseball articles for a Toledo newspaper. His work was praised by both newspapers and baseball men.

Death was due to tubercular meningitis. Joss had been ailing for a long time, but it was not supposed that he had any trouble that would have serious effect other than to his arm. On Sunday it became apparent that something more serious, in a general sense, had developed. Pleurisy, with some accompanying brain trouble, was the diagnosis. After death it was announced that tubercular meningitis, with which the physicians could not have coped, had been found to be the real affliction.

Members of the Boston club, who were all at their hotel when the news of the death was received, wired an order to Toledo for a floral tribute. The Washington players did not assemble yesterday, but probably will arrange for a token of regard when they meet for practice today.

OHIO STATE TEAMS SHOW GOOD CLASS

IN GAMES PLAYED THUS FAR IN ANTE-SEASON EXHIBITION GAMES.

Teams From Central League Have Been Beaten With Regularity as Well as Other Good Clubs.

The Ohio State League clubs seem to be showing class in the early season of exhibition games and the few that have been played indicate that the lovers of the game during the coming season will see an article of baseball not to be surpassed in any except the majors and Class A organizations. The Central League teams, classed one notch higher than the Ohio State, have been shown up, while other strong clubs have fallen victims to the prowess of the clubs in Bob Read's organization.

On Saturday Chillicothe beat Dayton 9 to 0, while Springfield drubbed Steubenville 12 to 3. The Ohio Wesleyan boys were toys for the Marion Diggers, 20 to 0, being the score, while Newark defeated the Flint, Mich., team 12 to 4.

The slaughter continued on Sunday, when Steubenville fell before Springfield 6 to 5, Chillicothe again defeated a picked team from the Dayton Veterans, 10 to 6, the Hamilton Reapers defeated Point Pleasant 5 to 2, while Newnham's Newark bunch smothered the Flint team 9 to 0.

This is ante-season dope all right, but it shows some class in both hitting and pitching and is a promise of good sport during the season.

And that joke about raising chickens on eggplant was a cold storage product at that.

FUNERAL OF ADDIE JOSS, NAP PITCHER

Toledo, April 17.—It is estimated that 15,000 men, women and children viewed the body of Pitcher Addie Joss at the Masonic Temple today. The funeral cortege was about half a mile long. Flowers from every part of the country were piled around the casket and delegations from many towns were present. The Cleveland and Detroit ball teams arrived about 11 o'clock. Rev. Billy Sunday preached the funeral sermon, paying a glowing tribute to the dead man as an athlete and as a citizen.

CLEVELAND CLUB REFUSED TO PLAY DAY OF FUNERAL.

Detroit, April 17.—Incensed because the league officials had declined to call off today's games in respect to the memory of Addie Joss, the entire Cleveland team decided to refuse to play today. They were willing to stand any personal fine or fines against the club together with the odium of forfeiting a game but were determined not to play. When Ban Johnson had this put up to him he called the game off officially and the entire bunch of men with many of the older Tigers started for Toledo to attend Joss' funeral.

Heart and Home Talks

by Barbara Boyd

Easter Day was sunshiny only in spasms but these bright spots in the otherwise glum day served to bring out the pretty frocks and new bonnets like unto the appearance of the dandelion after a cold shower followed by warm sunshine.

All the churches in the city held some special musical program and in the larger ones the programs were especially beautiful. Every house of worship was thronged at all the services by record breaking congregations. Special sermons apropos to the spirit of the day were delivered from every pulpit.

The show of Easter finery was much noticed in spite of the cold and disagreeable weather. Mostly tailored suits were initiated. Those of the short box coat with the narrow short skirt predominating, and whatever may be the many faults of this outfit, it at least possesses the virtue of neatness doing away with all unnecessary gewgaws.

The prefatory millinery display offers a vast array from which to make selection. If my lady prefers a small hat she can procure one so ridiculously tiny as to cause her to remove every bit of excess hair, discard the rats and fairly wrap her natural tresses about her head. Again if she wishes the large hat here is really no limit as to width or shape.

The officers of the Business Women's Club of Lima are industriously working to raise a debt on the club's handsome new home. Last week they issued a special edition of a local newspaper, clearing $1,000 for their work. The edition was entirely edited by the women, a special feature being a police court write-up by the society editor.

Miss Blanche Rusk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Rusk, of South Fifth street, and Guy Faust, of Newark, were married in that city at noon Saturday. While it was known that the wedding was to take place in the near future none of the bride's friends in Coshocton thought it would be solemnized so soon and the news comes as a pleasant surprise to her many friends here. Miss Rusk until Friday had been employed as telephone operator at the Citizens' telephone exchange in this city and was one of the most popular of Coshocton's young women.

Mr. Faust is a railroad man and has many friends in Coshocton.

After the ceremony was performed the young couple went to Sandusky where they will make their future home.—Coshocton Age.

The following complimentary notice given in the Columbus Dispatch of the work of Mrs. Wilson, formerly at the head of the vocal department of the Conservatory of Music at Denison University, will interest her many friends:

Elizabeth Thompson Wilson, contralto, has been chosen to represent the Music club on an artist program for the seasons of 1911-1912. Mrs. Wilson will probably appear on the program with an artist pianist, as those associate members who do not care for an entire evening of piano, will be grateful for the break in the program, in which a group of songs will be sung by this attractive singer. Mrs. Wilson is a native of Columbus, and was an excellent pianist before she began to study singing, or indeed before she knew she had a voice to sing. Mrs. Wilson has had excellent vocal training, and was for several years head of the vocal department of the school of music in Denison university. She has now returned to Columbus to do private teaching, has a studio at 52 South Washington avenue, and is solo contralto of the quartet at First Methodist church.

Throughout the year Mrs Wilson accepts a number of concert, recital and festival engagements, having a large repertoire of songs and oratorios.

To have a good voice well-trained is a negotiable asset; but to have a good well-schooled voice plus a most engaging personality, makes for a larger measure of artistic success. The singer whose scale is perfect and who possesses all the equipment of the concert singer may well envy the singer whom nature has blessed with a personality which not only ornaments the voice, but brings joy to every hearer. Mrs. Wilson has in large measure that indefinable quality we are wont to call personal magnetism, some name it artistic temperament, and still others designate it simply as charming personality. Her choice by the board as a Music club representative was enthusiastically unanimous.

Mrs. Wilson's appearance will probably be in November of this year, the club season opening October 11, with a song recital by Geraldine Farrar, accompanied by Frank La Forge, pianist.

Mrs. Harry Fink and daughter, Sarah Katherine, of Steubenville; Mrs. A. W. Ogle, of Cleveland, and Miss Katherine Fink of Newark, were the guests over Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Fink on South Second street.—Coshocton Age.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Gladys Duffey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Duffey of Newark, which took place Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, to Mr. John C. Allshouse of the Branthoover & Johnston Plumbing company. Rev. W. E. Harrison, pastor of the M. P. church, officiated at their own home on Finley aveiue which was in readiness for them. Only the immediate families of the contracting parties were present at the ceremony.—Cambridge Jeffersonian.

Mrs. J. H. Franklin entertained on Saturday afternoon with a very pretty children's party honoring the sixth birthday anniversary of her little son, John Heeley Franklin. The children gathered at the Franklin home in Buena Vista street and the hours were merrily spent with games. An egg race created much amusement, the souvenirs going to Esther Louise Jones and Richard Scheidler. In the peanut hunt the trophies were received by Helen Fuller and George Scheidler.

A delicious supper was served in the dining room, the table centerpiece being a cake bearing six candles. At each place were placed several Easter novelties which were given as favors.

SHEA-PORTER.

On Monday morning at 11 o'clock at the Cathedral at Syracuse, N. Y., was solemnized the marriage of Mr. Michael Shea of this city and Miss Anita Porter, of Syracuse, N. Y.

The church was filled with the many friends of the contracting parties and Bishop Grimes of the Syracuse diocese read the beautiful Catholic service. Following the service a dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. Shea will leave this evening for Newark where they will reside for the present. Mr. Shea is the general manager of the Central States Associated theatres and manager of the Auditorium theatre. Mrs. Shea is a young woman who has been extremely popular in the younger social circles of Syracuse.

The S. F. club was entertained at the home of Miss Evelyn Canfield in North street on the club day. The needle work proved very interesting. The prize was awarded to Miss Lucille Coffman. Those present were: Miss Esther Graef, Miss Lucille Coffman, Miss Alice Yates, Miss Dora Factor, Miss Esther Tyer and the hostess, Miss Evelyn Canfield.

REYNOLDS-BALDWIN.

On Easter Sunday evening was solemnized the wedding of Mr. Frank Reynolds and Miss Bernice Baldwin, in the Trinity Episcopal church. The affair was planned as a suprise but many of the friends of the young people learned of it and the ceremony was witnessed by a number of their friends.

The church presented a beautiful appearance with its Easter decorations and Rev. L. P. Franklin read the Episcopal service. Mr. Ned Dickinson was Mr. Reynold's best man. Following the service the couple left for a trip to Detroit where they will visit the groom's sister, Mrs. Lawrence Altoff. On their return they will make their home in Charles street.

Mr Reynolds has for some time been organist at the Trinity Episcopal church and is one of the city's most prominent musicians. Mrs. Reynolds is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Baldwin of Mill street, this city.

STOMACH TROUBLE

Cured by Vinol—Here is Proof.

Seymour, Ind., "I was troubled with a chronic stomach trouble and five weeks ago it got so bad I had to give up work. I had tried various medicines without relief—and was finally induced to try Vinol. After taking the first bottle I was greatly benefitted. Am now on the third bottle and ready to resume work. Am rapidly gaining in weight and strength." Edw. Nieman. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

It is the curative medicinal elements of the cods' livers, combined with the strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol which makes it so successful in restoring perfect digestion and at the same time it builds up the tired, overworked and run-down system.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help. F. D. Hall, druggist, Newark, O.

Recipes for April 18, 1911:

Potato Chowder—Peel and chop fine one large onion; dice six peeled potatoes and one-quarter of a pound of ham. Put the ham and onion in a pan and fry slowly until brown. Put the potatoes, ham and onion in layers in a saucepan, sprinkling them with one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, salt and pepper. Add two cupfuls of water, cover and simmer for twenty minutes; add two cupfuls of scalded milk; stir in one tablespoonful of flour and one tablespoonful of butter rubbed to a paste. See that it is well seasoned, simmer a minute longer and serve.

Cocoanut Pudding — From stale bread cut the crust, then butter and cut six ordinary slices. Put through the food chopper sufficient cocoanut from which the brown skin has been pared to made one cupful and a half. Separate the whites and yolks of three eggs; beat the yolks with one-half cupful of sugar, a half teaspoonful of vanilla and one pint of milk. Cut the bread in half inch dice. Arrange half of it in a baking dish, sprinkling one-quarter of the cocoanut through it. Baste over it half of the raw custard. Add the remainder of the bread, another quarter of the cocoanut and the rest of the custard. Bake in a very moderate oven until barely set in the center. Spread the top with a good layer of quince or other jelly, cover with the remainder of the cocoanut and over all heap a meringue made with the whites of the eggs whipped to a stiff froth with three tablespoonfuls of sifted powdered sugar. Sift sugar thickly over the top and return to the oven until lightly colored. Serve warm or cold.

KNOCKED FROM TRAIN AND WAS BADLY INJURED

Charles Reel, a fireman on the B. & O. railroad, received severe injuries in Cincinnati early Sunday morning. Mr. Reel was running into the city and in some way unknown to himself and companions was knocked from his engine at the Park street bridge in Cincinnati.

He was picked up unconscious and taken to a physician where it was found the back of the head was badly injured, a cut requiring several stitches had been made across the right eye and his nose was badly bruised.

Mr. Reel returned to Newark on 106 Sunday evening and is resting today at his home in South Second street.

N. C. R. SYSTEM
Browne Grocery

The Browne Grocery in the Arcade has adopted the National Cash Register System of accounting and on Saturday put the N. C. R. in operation. The Register System was entirely new to the entire force of clerks, but with 271 customers on that day, not a single mistake was made. The register tape showed every transaction—cash, received on account, paid out or charge transaction to be absolutely correct and the record of each clerk's sales was separate.

Everybody about the Browne grocery is very much pleased with the new system which keeps an accurate record of every transaction, simplifying the bookkeeping and keeping the sales of each clerk separate.

Within a few days the Browne Grocery will issue receipts with every purchase. It will pay to keep these receipts, as they will be redeemed at the Browne store in the Arcade.

If you want to know more about the N. C. R., telephone to or call at the National Cash Register office, No. 21 Arcade. Registers from $20.00 up.

Over 130,000 National Cash Registers were shipped from the factory last year to pleased customers.

TOLEDO BLADE

SUFFERS FIRE LOSS OF $150,000, SUPPOSED TO HAVE STARTED FROM CROSSED WIRES.

Printers Rescued From Third Floor. Magnificent Theatrical Library Ruined by Water.

Toledo, April 17.—Fire practically destroyed the office and plant of the Toledo Blade Publishing Company here Saturday night, entailing a loss estimated by the officials of the Blade at from $150,000 to $200,000, partly covered by insurance.

One fireman was seriously injured.

The fire is thought to have been caused by crossed electric wires. It was discovered by printers working on the third floor, and a general alarm was turned in. The flames spread rapidly and for a time threatened the Toledo hotel, next door, and also the wholesale grocery house of Church & McConnell, on the east and facing St. Clair street.

The nine printers at work on the third floor, finding their means of escape cut off by the flames, were rescued by firemen.

The flames were confined to the stereotyping room and circulation department. The composing, editorial, press and counting rooms and the basement were flooded, fifteen car loads of print paper in the basement, valued at $20,000, being thoroughly soaked.

The Toledo Weekly Blade and galleys of type and representing 270,000 subscribers and located in the circulation department section of the building were ruined. Duplicate lists however, are stored in a vault in a local bank. In this section is also located the office of Robinson Locke, president of the Blade Company, containing an almost priceless library of theatrical volumes which for many years has been the envy of the foremost American actors, and a number of valuable paintings. Mr. Locke said last night these would probably be a total loss from heat and water.

The Toledo Blade is under lease by Nat C. Wright and Harry Thalheimer, and was founded by David R. Locke, who made it famous following the civil war by his writings under the nom de plume of "Petroleum V. Nasby." The buildings are owned by his widow, Mrs. D. R. Locke.

BILL AGAINST ADULTERATED ICE CREAM

Columbus, April 17.—A crusade against the "homogenizer" has been started by State Dairy and Food Commissioner Strode. The homogenizer is an apparatus whereby skimmed milk is mixed with aged butter. The mass after its trip through this homogenizer is used in making ice cream in place of the usual ingredients. Although the national board of food and drug inspection has ruled that the skimmed milk and butter fat which is the product of the homogenizer is not entitled to be called either cream or milk, and that the ice cream made from the article is not properly ice cream, a number of these instruments are used throughout the state. A bill to prevent the use of adulterated cream has passed the house and is now in a senate committee. Strode is backing the measure, particularly to reach the "homogenizer" people.

NURSE WILL BECOME BRIDE OF SON OF SENATOR LODGE

Boston, Mass., April 17.—John E. Lodge, the only son of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, is to be married within the next few months, according to the story of Miss Mary Connolly, a trained nurse, who is herself to be the happy bride.

The engagement is the outcome of a romance begun in the sick-room when Mr. Lodge was in a critical condition during last December and January. Miss Connolly has always had the reputation among Back Bay doctors of being a particularly capable nurse, and her own personality and popularity among her sister nurses prove easily how she impressed the sick man.

When Dr. William Sturgis Bigelow began to treat Mr. Lodge he had him brought to his own home at 56 Beacon street. A nurse was needed, and Dr. Bigelow immediately summoned Miss Connolly.

From the middle of December until the middle of January Mr. Lodge was confined to the house, and practically his only companion was Miss Connolly. A strong liking grew up between them.

Miss Connolly comes from St. John, N. B., and received her training in Boston. She is 25 years old and an attractive appearing girl.

She said: "He visited me regularly after his recovery, and almost on his first visit he asked me if I was engaged to any man, or if there was any possibility of my becoming engaged. I thought immediately that he had been hearing stories told by some of the nurses of an engagement between myself and a friend of mine who lives in South Boston, and I told him that was not true.

"Shortly after this Mr. Lodge joined his father to start in his work as secretary, and I saw very little of him, but received a letter every day. Finally he came to Boston, less than a week ago, and proposed marriage and I accepted him."

or insurrectos crossing into the United States will be disarmed and held as prisoners.

Major General Wood and Secretary of War Dickinson were at their desks early today, expecting news of an attack on Agua Prieta.

They admitted that the relations between the United States and revolution ridden Mexico were in the balance.

The Red Cross society today sent money and nurses to Douglas, Ariz. Seven nurses go from Los Angeles and San Diego, while a draft of $2500 was authorized in a telegram to the chapter at Douglas.

Administration officials profess satisfaction with President Diaz' call for volunteers. At the same time the call is interpreted as an admission of the inability of his present force to cope with the situation.

El Paso, Tex., April 17.—A special dispatch from Chihuahua received here today says the hoped for release of American and other insurgent prisoners being taken to Chihuahua from Casas Grandes for trial by a Mexican federal court martial failed today when the insurrecto force of 500 was defeated, with a loss of 50 killed and scores wounded.

Many women and children refugees following the federal troops are reported killed.

News of the battles first was received when riderless horses, evidently stampeded at the beginning of the fight, appeared several miles from Chihuahua.

On several were the accoutrements of the soldier riders and to one was attached the body of a federal soldier who had been killed by a bullet. In falling one of his feet had caught in the stirrup and the body had been dragged many miles. The American prisoners being conveyed by General Valdez are those who were captured at the battle of Casas Grandes.

The fight occurred on a hacienda. The federals immediately responded to the attack with heavy firing and placed the prisoners and noncombatants under protection. The fighting continued for several hours.

Douglas, Ariz., April 17.—While the Easter crowd in gay gowns and bonnets thronged to church in Douglas yesterday morning the Federals and insurrectos met in battle, machine guns against rifles at Cobulonna Mountain, nine miles south.

Obedient to President Taft's order, General Garcia, the tall, gray haired, slightly lame commandant at Agua Prieta notified Captain Gaujot, in command of the United States cavalry at this point, the instant his scouts discovered the Federals and then sallied out to fight

The Federal advance was protected by quick firing artillery and smaller cannon of machine type, against which the insurrectos pitted 100 of the most skilful sharpshooters in the Southwest noneers at their guns. who from rifle pits picked off the can-

It was 10:30 o'clock when the battle opened. In half an hour the Federals, crippled by the storm of steel and lead had ceased to advance. A few moments later a slow and stubbornly contested Federal retreat began.

As the battle progressed a swiftly moving chain of couriers carried the progress of events to Agua Prieta where the insurrecto chiefs remained in camp.

President Taft's ultimatum that a general battle will not be permitted within the Douglass zone practically gives Agua Prieta into insurrecto hands as a base for operations. Even should the Federals succeed in checking their rebel foe, they will not profit by the victory. The insurrectos will simply fall back upon Agua Prieta secure in the knowledge that they cannot be followed by rifle fire.

When Captain Gaujot was informed by General Garcia that the Federal forces were in sight, James T. Williams, Jr., of Washington, but more recently of Arizona, in an automobile hurried with an American flag to inform the Federal officer in command that Mexican bullets must not endanger American lives. In the company of Williams went Charles McKean, a volunteer, who, with Captain Gaujot, had braved the bullets of Thursday's battle. McKean carried a flag of truce.

It was not until the battle was well under way that these men reached the front, and as they have not returned the American officers here have serious doubts as to their safety.

Henry Bede, a member of Garcia's staff, stated that should Agua Prieta be held it will be made the center of all insurrecto operations, and that in less than 10 days 10,000 troops will be here. From Agua Prieta the advance to the City of Mexico will begin. Bede is a soldier of fortune, having taken part in the Russian-Japanese war and the war in the Philippines. He is of a prominent German family

A branch of the American Red Cross society was organized in Douglas, Sunday, to take care of the wounded. E. W. Graves of the First National Bank of Douglas, is to be president, and nurses will be sent by the society from San Diego.

The story from Los Angeles that a secret pact existed between Mexico and Japan is turning all sympathy here in the direction of the insurrectos. The general trend of conversation, however irresponsible, is that should the United States troops cross the line a million volunteers will follow and the slogan, 'On to the canal' will be irresistible.

A crisis in the entire International situation, due to the Mexican revolution, is expected here today. More than 1,600 insurrectos are entrenched within rifle shot of the border and an equal number of Federals are advancing upon them.

Should the insurrectos maintain their present position, and they have no line of retreat, it will practically be impossible for the Federals to engage them without the rifle and military fire endangering lives on the American side.

James T. Williams, Jr., charged with the perilous mission of transmitting President Taft's ultimatum to the advancing Federal troops, has returned to Douglas after having successfully negotiated that hazardous mission. Following the battle of Sunday morning the rebel forces were slowly driven back upon their base in the village of Agua Prieta.

Captain Gaujot, the noted fighting captain, who proved himself no less courageous than humane in Thursday's battle which he saved 50 Federals from massacre has been superseded in command of the United States forces by Colonel Shunk.

Under Reynaldo Diaz commandant Louis Barron and Colonel Chimpa, the Federals have been fighting with skirmish lines of rebels all day. According to reports, Senora Talmantes has deployed her troops to the west, to flank the rebels who are coming in from the south.

The insurrectos hope to delay decisive action until the arrival of Francisco I. Madero's troops as well as that of several small detachments which left Hermosillo on Friday morning. In anticipation of today's battle not a room was to be had in any hotel or home in Douglas last night, so great is the throng that has hastened to the scene.

MONEY AND LIVES

I met the man who owns the mill, joy riding with a coachful, and stopped his motor on the hill, and said to him, reproachful: "A hundred damsels weave and spin, for you, for paltry wages; and will they all be fastened in when fire around them rages?" "I guess," he said, in accents hurt, "I guess they will be, sonny; for human lives are cheap as dirt, but fire escapes cost money. The people do not realize the burden rich men carry; the way my hard-earned money flies would paralyze Old Harry. My auto always needs repairs, my yacht is always yawning for coats of paint or easy chairs or miles of silken awning. To talk of fire escapes for mills is really rather funny, for human lives are cheap as pills, but fire escapes cost money. My bill for wines alone, my friend, would scare you into trances, and there are suppers without end, and forty kinds of dances. A trip to Europe every year requires a lot of boodle, and gems I bring to loved ones here all cost like Yankee Doodle. I cannot throw my scads away on mill equipment, sonny; for human lives are cheap as hay, but fire escapes cost money."

REV. P. H. WELSHIMER

Mr. Welshimer is the enterprising pastor of the First Christian church, Canton, Ohio. He is also the head of the Sunday school of the same church and is the teacher of an adult class of over 1400 members. The entire Bible school has an enrollment of 4,000. In the nine years that Mr. Welshimer has been pastor 2600 have been added to the church without any outside evangelical assistance.

Although their present church was dedicated only five and a half years ago, they are now doubling its capacity. When done the new church will accommodate a Bible school of 4,000. At present the Sunday school members cannot all get inside the church. In the summer they have overflow classes on the lawn outside. And this school is not a great big mob, either, but a perfectly systematized organization, moving in all its departments like clock-work.

Nine years ago the people of this church and Sunday school were few in number and poorly housed. How was the nine-year change wrought? No successful enterprise, religious or secular ever ran itself. There must always be a leader with a vision. Welshimer was the leader with a vision. He is going to tell us about it at the Licking county Sunday school convention to be held in Newark, May [illegible] and 20.

Do not fail to hear Welshimer. He is a live wire. Touch him anywhere and the sparks fly. He has a message that is built on experience.

CONVENTIONS FOR CHANGE OF CONSTITUTIONS

Of Ohio Have Been Held on Three Occasions, the First One Having Met in Chillicothe.

The state legislature is at present greatly concerned over the coming constitutional convention, which is called to revise the instrument of 1851, under which the state is now doing business. It is roughly estimated that the coming convention will cost between $400,000 and $500,000.

Ohio has had three constitutional conventions. The first was held at Chillicothe in 1802. This constitution was the only one never submitted to the people for a ratification. It was simply drawn up, accepted and acted upon as the basic law of the state without any preliminaries other than presentation to the legislature. The second convention met in Columbus in 1851 and adjourned to Cincinnati. After much labor it drew up the document that is now the supreme law of the state. The third convention was held in 1873-74, starting like the other one, at Columbus, and ending at Cincinnati. This last meeting entailed an expense of more than $200,000 upon the state. The constitution which it drew up was rejected in toto.

Under the law there should have been a constitutional convention in 1897, but the legislature bungled in the enabling act, and the supreme court threw it out. The first convention met at Chillicothe Nov. 1, sat four weeks and had 35 delegates. The convention of 1850 had 110 delegates. It met May 6 and adjourned March 10 the year following. The convention of 1873 had 105 delegates. Some of the leading legal talent of the state of the present day were members of that body. The constitution drawn by this body, when submitted at a special election Aug. 16, 1874, resulted in a vote:

For the new constitution	102,885
Against new constitution	250,169

The total cost of this last convention was $213,272.68.

The Funk & Wagnalls' Standard Dictionary

A special price edition of the great unabridged Standard Dictionary has been issued in one volume, rich American Russia leather. It will be sold exclusively by subscription. Each volume is elegantly finished and absolutely complete, carries the latest copyright and contains every living word in the English language. It includes such late terms as biplane, mimeography, rural delivery, etc., etc., not to be found in any other other Dictionary on the market. When West, Colonel Roosevelt sent the editors of the Standard Dictionary three new Indian terms, only to find that they were already in this comprehensive work.

Now

Theodore Roosevelt Says:
"I should have known better—taken it for granted that the Standard Dictionary contains all words."

Mark Twain Said:
"I have found that one can do without principles, but not without the Standard Dictionary."

A. Conan Doyle Says:
"It has become quite a joke with us that we can not trip up the Standard Dictionary."

Full Russia Leather.
Size 12¾x9¾ Inches.

Your child can take his questions to the Standard Dictionary—It is the easiest and simplest of all to consult. A teacher tells us that she knows when there is a good unabridged dictionary in the home, since it always shows itself in the improved speech of the pupil—he has learned the "dictionary habit." "The Standard Dictionary is wonderfully comprehensive; it is superb," says the U. S. Commissioner of Education, Hon. E. E. Brown. The dictionary is not a mere word-book, but in almost every case will take the place of the average ten volume encyclopedia. N. WOULD MAKE THE COMING SHOW DAY SCHOOL HOLIDAY

Editor Advocate:

In behalf of all the teachers and pupils in our public schools, and especially in behalf of our indigent children, we would most respectfully submit to our Board of Education the wisdom and propriety of dismissing the schools and giving the children a grand holiday on May 2, the coming show day.

We surely would not proffer this request if we did not believe that such action on the part of the board would be acceptable to al lthe parents and would make for the efficiency of the schools.

In other words, in addition to the rest and recreation which the teachers would derive from this holiday and the pleasure and profit it would give to the pupils, we believe that from this time until the close of the school year, they would more than make good whatever they might lose by missing the lessons and exercises of the schools on show day.

IS NEW LEADER IN CUYAHOGA

NEWTON D. BAKER

Newton D. Baker, Cleveland's city solicitor and one of the late Tom L. Johnson's intimate friends, has succeeded the former mayor as Democratic leader in Cuyahoga county. He had always been one of Mr. Johnson's close political advisors. It is believed he will be the next Democratic candidate for mayor.

GOSSIPING ABOUT NEXT PRESIDENT

One Observer Thinks Congress Will Name Candidates.

NOT TRUE AS TO THE PAST

National Lawmakers Have Usually Been Opposed to Men Chosen as Party Standard Bearers—Progressives Are Against Taft, and Some Are Hopeful of Defeating Him.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, April 17.—[Special.]—"This session and the next will make the presidential nominations in 1912," was a remark made by a political observer.

That may be true, but the fact is that congress never has had a great influence in shaping presidential conventions. Not in many years has congress had the candidate of its choice. Congress has been for Allison, Reed and others and against McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft. Congress was for Hill when Cleveland was named and for almost any other man when Bryan was named.

Congress does not make the nominations, but what congress does sometimes has a very important bearing on the selection of candidates. McKinley was nominated because he was once identified with a tariff bill, but neither of his successors owed anything to congressional influence or action for their nominations.

Progressives Against Taft.

By this time next year it is quite possible that congress will be for Champ Clark for president, but there will be other important probabilities in the race. Take it all in all, it is doubtful whether congress is going to make the presidential nominations.

It has become perfectly apparent that the progressive Republicans are going to do all in their power to prevent the nomination of Taft, and some of them think that they will succeed. But other political observers cannot see it in that light. The greater portion of the Republicans are with Taft, and most of them think it would be inviting disaster to defeat him for renomination.

May Make the President.

While this congress may not make the nominations, it may decide who will be president. The course of the Democratic majority in the house will go a long way in determining whether that party will be successful in 1912. Then it is also true that the progressives in the Republican party and the manner in which they and the regulars get along will have much to do in showing if the Republicans can unite on any candidate.

At present the progressive opposition to Mr. Taft is such as to indicate the impossibility of political unity. But this congress may make many changes in party conditions.

Bryan "Reticent."

William J. Bryan is known as a talker. More than that, he is a free and easy conversationalist. But the curious feature about all he says is that he seldom gives away anything.

Bryan came out of the White House about ten days ago, and not an inkling of what he was doing there could be obtained by the newspapers. Hundreds of newspaper men and politicians stopped at Lincoln on their way to the Denver convention in 1908. They all saw Bryan, but none of them got anything from him. He put off making his views known until the committee on platform assembled, and then it heard what he had to say over the long distance telephone.

There is no one so deep in Bryan's confidence that he can speak for him. And he does not get confidential and tell anybody anything that he doesn't want known. No newspaper man gets "the inside" from Bryan "in strict confidence" and goes about with the heavy secret. What Bryan wants made public he gives out; other things he keeps to himself.

Selected by Williams.

Charges have been made that the Democrats in following the seniority method in the selection of committees in the house, which was done in most cases, were simply indorsing the appointments made by former Speaker Cannon. That was only true in regard to appointments made in the last congress. Before that time the appointment of minority members of committees was left to the minority leader.

John Sharp Williams held that position during most of the time that Cannon was speaker, and very few recommendations which he made were rejected by the speaker. So in following the custom of seniority in regard to committee selections the house so far as most of the older members are concerned has confirmed appointments made by Williams.

An Old War Picture.

Senator Cullom received a copy of a photograph of a group of generals of the civil war with a request that he identify each of them so that the picture would be more valuable to the owner. It was sent to the venerable Illinois senator in the belief that he was one public man acquainted with men of prominence of that day. Strange to say, Cullom could not identify any of the men. It was sent to the war department, where other photographs are kept, for identification.

RAILWAY AFFAIRS

Railroad News.

The Canadian Northern railroad announces that it will extend its line to Porcupine from a point 15 miles north of Gowganda Junction, the line will be 50 miles long and probably will be a rail and water route, a chain of lakes 19 miles long extending to within eight miles of the new gold camp.

The Lake Erie & Northern, just incorporated in Canada, is to run from Port Dover, on Lake Erie Brantford and Paris, with a branch from Paris to Glenmorris and Ayr.

Since the pension department of the Rock Island was established on Jan. 1 of last year, 85 employes have been placed upon its roll, with an average monthly pension of $27.40 per month.

The gross tonnage of coal and coke carried by the Pennsylvania lines east of Pittsburg and Erie in February was 4,646,189, a decrease of 1,106,437 tons.

Within 90 days the erection of a union passenger station, to cost $2,000,000, will begin at Wichita.

The Pennsylvania has had returned to it by a woman, who on March 2, 1871, rode from Milesburg to Bellefonte, a ticket dated March 25, of the same year.

Still Hope for Union Station.

There is still hope for a union station for Zanesville. Although the Pennsylvania railroad threw cold water upon the project, the B. & O. railroad has promised to give it consideration. General Manager W. A. Thompson of the B. & O., in a letter to the Chamber of Commerce, says he will go there in the near future and investigate.

All Coming North.

The general trend of passenger traffic just now, according to railroad officials, is from the winter resorts of the south to the cities between the lakes and the Ohio. Thousands of people spent the winter in the south, and now, when Florida begins to feel like a steam-heated flat with a good janitor, the people follow the example of the wild geese and come north.

Local agents state that the passenger traffic is beginning to swing north even this far from the gulf, and that this will constantly increase until the middle of August. Then the southward travel will begin, and those people who have been saving all summer to buy a motor car will just forget all about that and go south.

Yards Congested.

Yards at the lake ports, especially at Toledo, are badly congested with coal cars, and it will require some time to get them cleared up. There has been considerable coal shipped from the Hocking Valley to Toledo recently for lake shipment and in addition there is also a good deal of coal from the mines on the C. & O. The boats available have been loaded and there is now a scarcity of vessels. As a result lake coal shipments have about ceased and will not be resumed to any great extent until the yards are cleared. Neither the domestic nor the steam demand for coal has improved and the coal business is now at about the lowest point for several years.

Reducing Shop Force.

During the past week the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. has been reducing its shop forces in many places on lines west of Pittsburg. The C. A. & C. shops at Mt. Vernon have not been affected. The total number of men now on the payroll is about 190, practically the same as during the past two or three years. The time has been 45 hours per week the past two or three months and it is expected to hold strictly to that basis.

Compounds Are Popular.

Compound engines are becoming very popular in Europe and a number of the larger roads are having them built. The compound engines used on the roads of France and Germany are not of the Mallet type, that is, they are not articulated.

The original compound locomotives were European made but various types were soon adopted in the United States. For a long while the companies on neither continent cared to go into the manufacture of these new engines exclusively, but at last France and Germany are beginning to see the possibilities in them.

They have become popular among the railroad men there, and with modifications suited to the countries and climates, they have been considered successful. The Mallets have been manufactured in the United States for several years, but are being used only on the western roads. They have not come into general use and although the railroads see great possibilities in locomotives of this class they are very slow to make purchases of them.

The largest locomotive in the world has just been made for the Santa Fe. It is of the Mallet (pronounced Malley) articulated compound type, with superheater attachment.

Electrics in Panama.

Panama will be fortified, but mule-less.

Instead of the familiar old towpath mule, giant electric locomotives will haul the shipping through the world's largest canal. No steam locomotive could hope to budge such a giant steamer as the Mauretania, which weights 45,000 tons. The largest and most powerful electric locomotives will be used, and to prevent them from slipping on the rails, a third rail will be laid between the other two. This rail will be geared to fit a large cogwheel, which will give the engines a powerful leverage.

The B. & O. has awarded contracts for the construction of second track on the main line of the Chicago division, from Wellsboro east to La Paz Junction, Ind., 24.8 miles; Hamlet to Holgate, O., 5.3 miles and Delaware Bend to Mark Center, O., 5.9 miles. The work of building the second track will be started at once and carried through to an early completion.

W. T. Joyce, who has been located here for some time, where he has held the position of car foreman in the B. & O. shops, has been promoted and has been transferred to Washington, Ind., where he will be stationed in the car department.

CAMBRIDGE STILL DRY.

Cambridge, O., April 17. — The wind played a curious prank yesterday morning at the B & O depot by scalping the top off the water tank at the union station. The tank contained about 40,000 gallons of water. Not a drop was spilled.

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit..

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

This remedy is sold under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Chickens' Little Mother

"She Was a Good Mother to the Chicks"

"YOUNGSTERS," asked daddy one evening, "did you ever see a mother hen with a brood of her little chickens?"

"Why, of course, daddy!" said Evelyn. "Every one who has ever been on a farm has seen that!"

Daddy's eyes twinkled. "I knew you had," he said, "but I wanted to ask the question just to get a good beginning for my story of this evening. It is about a little girl who played mother—and very successfully, too—for a brood of chickens.

"You see, these chickens had lost their own mother. She had been careless in eating and had swallowed a rusty nail which had not agreed with her. Very soon after poor Biddy had become very ill and had died, and that had left her ten poor little chicks—wee, downy, little things, just hatched they were, too—without any mother. What to do with the chickens was a puzzle, for none of the other hens would take care of them.

"One of the hens, a speckled one, had twelve chicks of her own, and when the poor little orphans were placed near her she looked at them as if to say, 'What are these creatures doing near my own fine brood?' and she walked away without even giving them another look.

"There was another hen which had only four chickens of her own, but she was a cross old creature and pecked at the newcomers whenever they dared to come near her. Really it looked as though she wanted to kill them.

"All this happened on a farm at which a little girl was staying for the summer. Like all you youngsters, she was fond of the chickens and spent much of her time in watching them scratch and quarrel and in feeding them. When she saw how badly the poor little chicks without any mother were treated by the other hens she decided to adopt them herself. She took the ten little chicks up carefully in her apron, cuddled them down in her lap and smoothed their feathers. They seemed to feel that they had found a good friend and remained quietly and contentedly in her lap.

"As long as the little girl remained on the farm she was a good mother to the chicks. She soon taught them how to scratch for worms. Every night she put them to bed in an old basket, covering them up to keep them warm. In the mornings, bright and early she went first, even before she had her own breakfast, to see that her 'little children,' as she called the ten chickens, had something to eat. They knew her and were glad to see her, and it was a really funny sight to see them answer her call and run to her.

"She spent most of her time mothering her chicks until they became so big that they could take care of themselves."

BUSINESS HONESTY.

Business men should not be Christians only when they say their prayers, but all the time. The confidence of the people is necessary for the real success of any business, and the surest way to gain this confidence is to deal honestly, tell the absolute truth, hide nothing and convince the people that they are getting a square deal. Justice is a virtue which prompts us to pay what we owe to our neighbor. It is the foundation stone of social order and of business intercourse, for if we did not believe that men had a sense of justice we would have no confidence in their integrity, and without this confidence commercial life would be paralyzed.—Cardinal Gibbons.

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION

Much Sickness Due to Bowel Disorders.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98% of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver, and that this condition must be removed gently and thoroughly before health can be restored.

Rexall Orderlies are a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of their great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce entire satisfaction.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quietly, and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhœa or other annoying effect. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Two sizes, 25c and 10c Sold at our store—The Rexall Store—Hall's Drug Store, 10 N. Side Square.

The Ohio Rochester well, on the Lyman Fulk farm, near Cooperdale, Coshocton county, proved to be a duster. The well was drilled to a depth of 3300 feet.

One of the witnesses in the Lorimer case is dead. But the issue is as live as ever.

REV. HIRAM SEARS.

Many people will learn with regret of the death of Rev. Hiram Sears, D. D., which occurred at the home of his daughter in Berea last week, death being due to a stroke of apoplexy. For a period covering about a quarter of a century, Rev. Mr. Sears made annual visits to Newark, preaching in several churches in the city on Sundays in the interest of the Western Seamen's Friend Society of Cleveland.

Cleaning Windows Crystal Clear

With a dry, soft cloth remove the dust from both outside and inside, cleaning the corners and grooves with the point of a stick covered with a cloth. Have ready a pail of warm suds made by dissolving a tablespoon of Gold Dust washing powder in warm water. Dip a soft cloth in the water, squeeze almost dry and wipe the glass off. Polish with chamois, as it leaves no lint and does the work with more ease. Do not wash windows when the sun is shining on them. Mirrors should be washed in the same way as windows. Then polish with a soft cloth charged with powdered whiting.

REBELS entering AGUA PRIETA

In the battle between insurrectos and the Mexican federal troops at Agua Prieta, Mexico, three Americans were killed and several others who were spectators were wounded. Several of the wounded were in Douglas, Ariz., across the border. Uncle Sam, in the person of President Taft, has notified the federal and rebel forces that they must conduct their scrimmages away from the border in the future. A large force of rebels is expected to invest Juarez, across the border from El Pa o, Tex., and more fighting is expected there.

ieturns After an Absence of Seven Years and Surprises Her Mother Easter Day.

Zanesville, April 17.—Leaving her iome during a period of deep reigious fervor, when the "Holy Rolers," a curious dancing sect, enjoyd their greatest prosperity at Hopevell seven years ago, Blanche Wiliams, 21, now Mrs. Edward Hackr, accompanied by her husband, arived in Zanesville Sunday morning, nd immediately went out to Hopevell, where Mrs. Hacker greeted her nother, Mrs. Anna Pangle, for the irst time in seven years. During ier absence from home she married Ar. Hacker, also a Holy Roller, and he two are still members of that eligious order.

At the time Mrs. Hacker left Mt. Sterling, she was only 14 years old, nd was accompanied by Grace Van Allen, about the same age, the Van Allen girl being discovered at work on a farm near Chicago, by her fathr, a year after her disappearance. This girl has since married George Snyder, and is living at Glenford.

When the girls disappeared, it was hought to be a kidnaping case, as hey left without the consent of their elatives. It was believed they had ieen spirited away. However, it leveloped that the girls left of their iwn accord, but as they were under ige, the affair was the greatest kind of a sensation.

Mr. and Mrs. Hacker are now making their home in Waukesha, Wis., out they have moved from place to place for some time, preaching the Holiness doctrines.

A French group is repairing and contructing 4,750 miles of road in Turkey n Asia and 1,000 miles in Turkey in Europe for an estimated cost of $13,-08,000.

CATARRH DOCTOR

Cures Catarrh, Acute or Chronic, or Money Back.

Would you pay one dollar to rid yourself of disgusting catarrh?

Then go to Evans' drug store today and ask him for a Hyomei outfit and you will not only engage, but you will own outright a little catarrh doctor that has cured more cases of catarrh than all the catarrh specialists on earth.

In the $1.00 box which contains he Hyomei outfit, you will find a ittle hard rubber vest pocket inhaler.

Into this inhaler you pour a few drops of Hyomei. Then all you have o do is breathe through the little inhaler, either through the nose or mouth, according to where the catarrh is located.

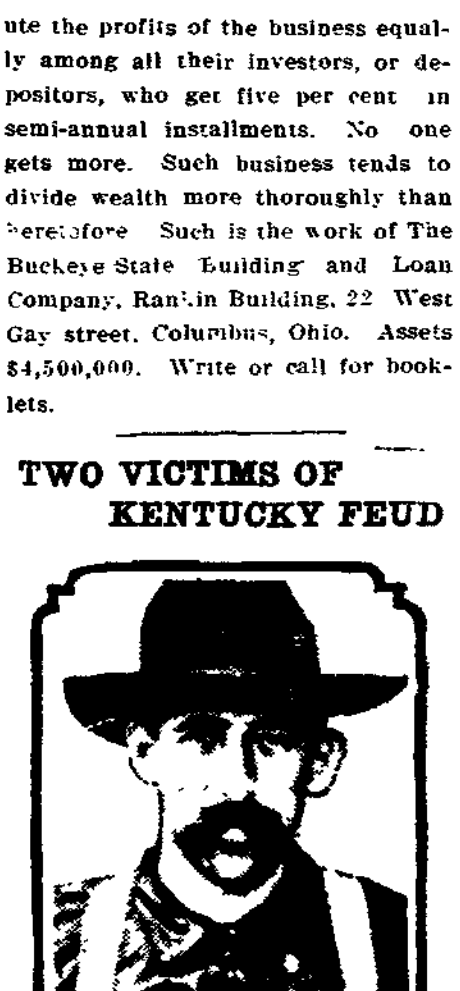
When you breathe HYOMEI you breathe a powerful yet soothing, antiseptic air, which as it passes over he inflamed and germ ridden membrane penetrates every fold and crevice, and destroys germs completely.

Stomach dosing never cured catarrh, sprays and douches always fail; and why? because they don't get where the germs are, and as catarrh is a germ disease you must kill the germs, before you can cure catarrh. HYOMEI is guaranteed by Evans' drug store, and by druggists everywhere to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, croup and sore throat.

GREAT GOOD

Is being done by Building and Loan Associations. Fourth. They distribute the profits of the business equally among all their investors, or depositors, who get five per cent in semi-annual installments. No one gets more. Such business tends to divide wealth more thoroughly than heretofore. Such is the work of The Buckeye State Building and Loan Company, Rankin Building, 22 West Gay street, Columbus, Ohio. Assets $4,500,000. Write or call for booklets.

TWO VICTIMS OF KENTUCKY FEUD



The old-time Calahan-Hargis feud, or rather an echo of it, has broken out in Breathitt county. Anse White has killed Jason Deaton. White was a member of the clan formerly headed by Judge James Hargis and Ed Calahan, and his brother, Tom White, is now serving a life sentence for complicity in the assassination of James B. Marcum by White and Curt Jett. Deaton was the leader of the Deaton and Smith faction.

Deaton, accompanied by Luke Begley, went to the home of White and created a disturbance, shooting White in the thigh. White got his rifle into action by that time and shot Deaton three times through the head and Begley through the head and shoulder. Begley was able to get away. Deaton died where he fell. White was not arrested. He died later.

Simple Essence Makes Best Home Cough Syrup.

Many families in this community have found a wonderful blessing in the shape of a home-made laxative cough syrup which is the most effective cough and cold cure obtainable anywhere at any price. A whole pint can be made for less than eighty cents so that it is 8 or 10 times cheaper than labeled mixtures. Buy of the druggist 2½ ozs. Essence Mentho-Laxene and empty it into a pint bottle. Pour over a pint of granulated sugar a half-pint of boiling water, stir, cool, and then fill up the pint bottle with syrup. Full directions accompany the package for usage of children and adults. Nothing breaks up a cold so quickly and a cough is immediately relieved.

The Highest Bidder

A Washington Birthday Story

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

The old house looked grim and cold in the chill light of the February day. The gray clouds lowered over its mossy roof, and the naked elms creaked dismally in the bitter wind. The small porch was on a line with the ancient fence and the land stretched away in the rear—gnarled old fruit trees, acres of wornout pasturage and a line of dark cedars against the horizon.

Austin Ely and his bride descended from the station stage that had brought them to the steps of their future home. Their trunks were dumped in the small porch, the box of supplies that Austin had prepared ere they left the city stood at the door, and the stage rolled away with the driver peering curiously back at them over his fur clothed shoulder.

Austin looked up and down the lonely road with its scattering of equally dismal houses and shivered. He bent down and gathered his wife into his strong young arms. "Dorothy, dear, what sort of a place is this to bring you to?" he demanded wrathfully. "A poor beggar like me ought never to marry. Well, you know, dear, it isn't fair to you to start out in this old rookery!"

Dorothy placed her gloved hand over his lips. "I won't hear a word against your Uncle Bob's legacy. Just think of owning and occupying the oldest house in the state! Why, tradition says George Washington slept here once when it was the best known tavern on the post road. Do get out that huge brass key and let us go in. It is bitterly cold out here!"

Austin brought out the key and thrust it in the lock. "If you had only let me come on ahead and open up the old place, Dorothy—have it partly furnished and a warm fire for you"—

"Tut, tut!" admonished Dorothy, crowding into the narrow hall in his wake. "You know very well I'm perfectly crazy over old houses, and I would never forgive you if you denied me the pleasure of rummaging out the old stuff in this place. Oh, isn't that the dearest old room, and see, Austin, the enormous fireplace!" She waltzed gayly across the uneven floor, her teeth chattering with the cold.

Her husband forced up the small paned windows and threw back the heavy wooden shutters, letting in the cold light of day. It was a long low room, the walls hung with an ancient striped paper. The furniture was very old, and its possession would have made a collector wild with joy. A pair of long settles, a large mahogany buffet, a great round table to match with the accompanying chairs, were placed on the wide polished boards now covered thickly with dust. The large fireplace contained brass andirons, and on the chimneypiece were brass candlesticks—a long row of them—a dozen in all.

"Let's have a fire at once," suggested Dorothy eagerly. "We can make this room our headquarters till we are settled."

"It will be fine and dandy when spring comes," said Austin dubiously, "but I don't know what you're going to do in the meantime, Dorothy. Here it is the 22d of February, and April is a long way off. Won't you be lonely?"

Dorothy smiled away his wistful glance. "Lonely where you are?" she said. "And, besides, think of all the chickens we're going to raise and of all the money you're going to make next summer with your eggs and your broilers!"

"If we only had $300," he sighed, "everything would come out all right."

"Come to the garret with me and see if we can't find another small table for the south window. I can sit there and sew while you're writing at the big secretary I think you're going to drag in here from the hall."

Together they mounted the steep stairs to the low attic, redolent of cedar shingles, where innumerable wasps crawled stickily to and fro.

"There are chests and chests and chests! Let me peep inside this old hair covered one, Austin; I'm sure it belonged to some eighteenth century belle. No, I'm not a bit cold. How could I be with these great warm chimneys jutting out into the garret? Ah!"

Dorothy's ecstatic cry was echoed by Austin's prolonged whistle of amazement at the beautiful garments divulged by the lifting of the lid of the hair trunk.

"Two white wigs—one for you and one for me!" she cried delightedly, tossing one to him and placing the other, a towering erection of puffs and curls, over her own sleek hair.

Austin crammed on his wig just in time to see his wife's rosy face beaming at him from under the whiteness of the other. Simultaneously they bent in stately greeting.

"Good morrow, Mistress Washington," said Austin mischievously.

"Ah, Mr. Washington!" Dorothy dipped a splendid courtesy and suddenly turned to the chest. "Oh let us put on these perfectly gorgeous garments, Austin. We might as well enjoy ourselves until the man brings the coal!"

Dorothy slipped into a blue brocade, admired the towering mass of white curls above her forehead and waited while Austin arrayed himself in the same manner. "We are frightfully foolish, I know," she said, rather wearily, "but I simply must do something interesting or I shall be horribly homesick tonight."

"Then let us go down and eat our supper in these things," suggested Austin hastily. "Don't be homesick, Dorothy; please don't, or I shall be tempted to weep on your shoulder and throw up the chicken business altogether."

Dorothy paused before him, looking very lovely in her ancient garb, her sweet eyes serious and thoughtful. "Austin Ely, tell me truthfully, did you want to go into the chicken business or are you merely doing it to provide a home for me?"

Austin walked over and kissed her face. "I'll confess to a weakness for the city," he admitted sheepishly. "I wasn't cut out for a farmer, Dorothy, although I do love to be with you all day long here in the country. There is something about the life and bustle of the city that calls me. I wish we might keep this for a country home and live as we always have done, in town during the winter."

"Some day we will," encouraged Dorothy, with her sweet smile. "Let us go downstairs."

All at once the great knocker on the front door was lifted three times and a resounding racket echoed through the sparsely furnished house.

"Who can that be?" gasped Dorothy as she drew near her husband.

"Some neighbor," he assured her as he led the way down to the lower floor. While Dorothy lighted the bayberry candles and set the table for supper Austin went to the door and flung it open.

There at the curb throbbed and pulsated a monster touring car. In it were three shadowy forms, while a fourth stood on the doorstep.

"Ho—the inn!" called the man on the doorstep lustily. "Let us in, good people, and show us what you can do by way of entertainment."

"This is not an inn," said Austin brusquely. "You will find a very good one at the end of this street."

"Nay, 'tis not so," corrected the other. "Many's the time I have sate here in the bar of the Blue Boar and sipped my glass o' toddy. Come in, boys; landlord says all are welcome and that he will broil chickens for us. Make haste, my man."

Austin planted his feet firmly in the doorway. "It's a cold night and you are welcome to come in and have a bite to eat, but there won't be anything to drink unless I can find some applejack."

The four entered with noisy hilarity, and it was plain to be seen that they were all in a state of semi-intoxication. They were well dressed men, and their faces were not unpleasing, though more than one of them showed signs of dissipation.

With the impression that the sooner he served these unwelcome guests the earlier he would be rid of their doubtful companionship, Austin beckoned Dorothy into the kitchen and together they concocted a tray full of refreshments that were mostly got from the provision box. A large piece of cheese, a large loaf of Vienna bread, butter, cold boiled ham and a pitcher of applejack completed a repast that brought forth a cheer from the group gathered before the dining room fire.

Suddenly they looked at Austin in his festal garments of drab velvet and cherry satin, with gray silk hose and buckled shoes, and at Dorothy peeping around the door gorgeous in blue brocade. With one accord they arose and touched their glasses.

"It's George Washington and Mistress Martha," gasped the spokesman. "Your healths and long—long—er, you know!"

With bulging eyes the four drank the toast, while Austin and Dorothy laughed until they cried. At last they returned to the dining room, where a curious sight met their gaze.

Standing in the middle of the round mahogany table, the spokesman of the party was calling for bids for its purchase. "As pretty a—bit—of colonial furniture—as ever your eyes lighted on—gentlemen. Who will start the bidding on this table, the property of the immortal George—you Freddy? What am I offered for this table?"

"One dollar," said Freddy feebly.

"Pooh! Who will give me more to cover this insult? Cecil, you bloated bondholder, beat it up!"

Cecil solemnly entered his bid of a hundred dollars, and as if they had been waiting for this amount, the four proceeded to raise the value of the mahogany table by hundreds until it was knocked down to the languid Freddy for $1,000. From a plethoric roll he peeled off the amount and tossed it to the table, and then, forgetting the incident, he led a solemn procession from the house and into the waiting automobile.

Dorothy and her husband stared at each other across the mahogany table. "Oh, Austin—what does it mean? Were they drunk?" she asked.

"As lords," said Austin feelingly. "Tomorrow morning they will awake without the slightest recollection of what they have done tonight. I've got my work cut out for me to try to trace up that Freddy chap and give him back his money or the table. If I can't find him, why—I reckon we needn't start that chicken business till April, eh, Dorothy?"

"Don't call me Dorothy," said that young woman airily as she spread wide her brocaded skirts. "For the rest of this curious night I am Mistress Martha Washington, and you are George himself—but, oh, Austin, I do hope you won't find that highest bidder."

"I'm not likely to," said Austin, trying to look unhappy, and it is on record that they didn't start the chicken business until April was well on her way.

TRIED TO KILL BABY DAUGHTER

Chicago, April 17.—Because her daughter Ethel, aged 5, cried for her father on Easter, Mrs. Pearl McPherson, 25, who is suing for divorce, turned all the gas jets in her hotel room here wide open. Woman and child were found almost dead, but it is thought they will recover.

ZANESVILLE TEAM HERE TOMORROW AT WEHRLE BALL PARK

The Zanesville team of the Central League will play an exhibition game at Wehrle Park with the Molders on Tuesday afternoon. This game will be a good one and should attract a large crowd.

The former Zanesville players who are now members of the Newark team will work their heads off to down their old team mates.

Manager Newnham has not definitely decided on the line-up as yet, but the fans can rest assured that they will have a chance to see the new men in action.

Turn out tomorrow and help root for the home team in the last exhibition game before the opening of the Ohio State season Thursday.

WONDERLAND HAS CHANGED HANDS

The Wonderland theatre, devoted to motion pictures, today again changed hands. For the past several weeks Messrs. Downey and Vogelmeier have managed the theatre, but today they disposed of their interests to George Bontham and Nick Jones, the two new proprietors having taken possession today.

Messrs. Bonham and Jones intend to entirely remodel the theatre, making it up to date in every particular. A firm of decorators will look over the show shop this evening and then it will be turned over to them to make complete changes.

Some men seem to think they are being badly treated if they have to smoke their own cigars.

Would you say that the gatekeeper in a cemetery plays a dead open and shut game?

COURT NEWS

Common Pleas Court.

The case of Susannah Holler vs. Eugene Stout was tried to the court in common pleas court on Monday.

The suit is brought to recover on a warranty in the sale of certain real estate, the question being as to the proper party to pay an amount of unpaid taxes.

After hearing the testimony the case was submitted to the court.

Case Settled.

MAY IMPEACH MICHIGAN'S GOVERNOR

Lansing, Mich., April 17. — Dissatisfied over the manner in which Gov. Osborn received the action of the lower house of the legislature in adopting the minority report of the committee that investigated Marquette prison, it is said that a majority of the representatives will favor impeachment proceedings against the chief executive.

They insist that such action will be taken unless he brings about the removal of Warden James Russell and the members of the board of control of the institution at Marquette. Hardly had the report been adopted when a resolution was pushed through the house placing the matter in the hands of the chief executive for immediate action.

The report set forth that Warden Russell had flogged men into insensibility and that he had received tribute from the contractors who operate the factories at the prison.

IT'S YOUR NERVES THAT AIL YOU

Don't Lay the Blame to the Stomach, Blood, Heart or Bowels.

It's the nerves that are the real offenders nine times out of ten.

But don't leave it to nature alone to make them well. Nature can only go so far. When that point is reached nature needs aid.

Morse's Glycerole will do more in less time to build up your nerves and your body as a whole than any other remedial agency yet discovered. For it doesn't stop with lending a little aid to the stomach. It doesn't help in a little way the tired and wornout nerves, leaving the blood to look after itself. It grips, holds, strengthens, starts to build up, recharges and revitalizes the whole body, inside and out. T. J. Evans will guarantee it to do so. Try it. If it falls short, bring the partly-used bottle back and get your money. But it won't fall short. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. Be sure to ask for our 24-page book, "Do You Suffer?" It is free.

BAD WEATHER HAS INTERFERED WITH WORKOUTS

Lexington, Ky., April 17.—Frequent heavy rains have retarded training operations at the Kentucky Horse Breeders' Association track, until the knights of the sulky have begun to wonder when they will again see as many as three successive dry days. There have not been all told more than half a dozen days this season upon which the mile track was available for jogging. The course barely has time to dry out from one rain until there comes another. This week there was a heavy rain on Tuesday, followed by one still heavier, a veritable cloudburst, on Thursday. The trainers, however, are using the roads, wet or dry, and the horses are well seasoned and ready to make speed when the opportunity comes.

An event of the week was the annual stallion show, which was held on the K. T. H. B. A. grounds. In comparison with the shows of former years, the number of sires on exhibition was small, and the attendance, due probably to lack of advertising, was not as large as in past years.

The Western trotter Wilmering (2:14 1-4) arrived last Saturday and is in the stable of W. J. Andrews.

The stable of J. L. Dodge is expected here from Macon next week.

James R. Magowan's string will be shipped from Mt. Sterling to Indianapolis about May 1 and will move from there to Detroit about June 15.

Clem Beachey's Tregantie mare, Sue Fletcher, foaled a bay filly by General Watts (2:06 3-4), last week and has been bred to Kentucky Tod (2:08 3-4).

Alice Pointer, belonging to Capt. David Shaw of Cleveland, foaled twin brown fillies by Directum Spier, the sire of the four-year-old champion Joan (2:04 3-4), but only one is living. Alice Pointer was bred back to Directum Spier.

Sewall Combs, a member of the Gentlemen's Driving Club of this city, has sent the three-year-old Velvet, by J. J. Audubon, dam Velveteen by Aberdeen, to Ed Allen to be trained. He is regarded as a good trotting prospect.

BOYLES MEET

Warden of Penitentiary Allows Them Half Hour Together Easter for First Time Since Arrest.

Pittsburg, April 17.—"Jimmy" Boyle and his wife, Helen, met for the first time since their incarceration in the Western penitentiary. The couple were convicted for kidnaping Willie Whitla of Sharon, and were arrested in Cleveland. Boyle was sentenced to life imprisonment and is the only prisoner in the country known to have this distinction. His wife Helen was sentenced to 25 years' imprisonment.

The couple were permitted by Warden John Francis to spend half an hour together and hereafter they will be permitted to be with each other for the same length of time once every three months, providing they have no demerits.

The woman says she still loves her husband and her one desire is to be free so she can work for his freedom. Her case is in the hands of a local attorney, who maintains that her imprisonment is illegal.

AMUSEMENTS

THE ORPHEUM.

See Capt. Brunswick's Wild West company, that opened today at the popular Arcade theatre for the first half of this week in that comedy playlet entitled "The Tenderfoot's Troubles." Come and see real Indians and cowboys just as you would find them in life in their native land. This is a great novelty and entertaining as well. The playlet is full of good comedy, and gives you a chance to see how a tenderfoot is treated when he first goes west. Another very pleasing added feature of the bill will be Reiff, Clayton and Reiff, the classy singers and dancers. This is a high-class act, and will be appreciated by all lovers of good, clean entertainment. Miss Leah Stanley, the clever little singing comedienne, will please you all in her classy and popular songs. Orpheumscope has a new feature film.

Graustark.

At the Auditorium theatre April 26. That "the whole world loves a lover," is an old truth that the novelist and playwright have coined into dollars. The world does love love, and pays good money to read of it and see it acted on the stage. The American public loves "Graustark," not only because "Graustark" is a story of love, but of dominant American love, the love that knows no end and no defeat.

When a lover pursues a girl across an ocean and two continents, only to find her, at the end of the journey, sitting in the fierce light which beats upon a throne, the situation is at least strained, and by many the incident would be regarded as closed. But when, by sheer grit and tenacity, he proceeds to batter down her ancestral traditions and misconception of duty, overrule the bitter prejudices of her people and refuse flatly to consider himself beneath a princess, the patriotic American spirit rises to him and rejoices when, in the face of all opposition, he wins the royal maid for his bride.

Mr. Barney Gilmore.

"Kelly from the Emerald Isle," at the Auditorium theatre April 21, is a show that keeps the audience guessing from start to finish. Barney Gilmore's songs, "As Long as the World Goes Round" and "Where the River Shannon Flows," were hits with his hearers. Bessie Boyd and Ted V. Armond do a catchy song and dance. The cast is a good one. Barney Gilmore scores a success in the title role, with a brogue that sounds as though it were fresh picked from the Emerald Isle from which it hails.

The Newlyweds and Their Baby.

"The Newlyweds and Their Baby" the 60 1-2 people music show that comes to the Auditorium theatre for two performances, Saturday, April 22, matinee and night, is a fountain of bubbling fun.

What a lovely thing is the comedy of childhood! Could anything quite touch the tender emotions quicker than the sight of Baby Napoleon Newlywed crawling backward slowly into view, his dress over his head, his lingerie whimsically revealed?

Applause ripples from parquet to gallery before anybody catches a view of the baby face. Napoleon's entrance on the nursery setting of the first act is a bit of stagecraft — the dignity of the serious touched with a sense of humor.

Rosen is a cheery-faced little fellow, a wonderfully talented lilliputian, who can gurgle and cry with the comedy unction of babyhood itself. The audience applauds again at the sight of his pretty features. When he sees Mr. Newlywed and croons "da-da," the ladies rock in merriment. Rosen is so good they want to kiss him.

Damon and Pythias.

The story of the drama of "Damon and Pythias," which will be given under the auspices of Roland Lodge, No. 305, Knights of Pythias, while an old one, is ever new, and is here briefly given for the benefit of those who have not yet heard of it: Damon, a senator of Syracuse, had incurred the ill will of the tyrannical king, Dionysius, and was condemned to death. Many delighted to honor Damon when he wore the robes of office, but now he has but one friend in all Syracuse, the companion of his brighter and better days. Pythias was true, and knowing Damon's love of home, he begs the tyrant to grant his freud a respite (he to take his place in the dungeon) that he might see his wife and child before he dies. Although a stranger to the art of speech, his love for Damon inspired a most eloquent appeal and it moved the old king to grant the request, for he had never seen such friendship before. For six hours Damon was allowed to go and see his wife and child. The mystery deepens and Dionysius cannot solve it. By his command, in the lone dungeon where Pythias wears the chains, the fair Calanthe urges her lover to break his bonds and fly with her where dangers cannot come. He will not go; he has pledged his word and honor is more to him than life. And at his refusal the king marvels still the more. Finally the hour of execution is at hand; Damon has not returned and Pythias is brought to the block to suffer in his stead. The assembled crowd taunts him wth the seeming falseness of his friend. Relying on the honor of Damon and proud of his friendship, he calls upon the gods to prevent his return and turns to meet his fate. At the last moment, when the headsman's axe is raised, a horseman is seen in the distance coming with the speed of the wind; it is Damon. He has been true to his promise and saved his friend. The air resounds with the shouts of the populace in recognition of a virtue that has long been buried under the weight of human selfishness. The king is so surprised that he pardons Damon and all ends happily.

The play is in five acts and there are many stirring situations and climaxes. You will be highly entertained and repaid if you attend the production at the Auditorium next Monday night, April 24.

POLICE COURT

Police court was a little light for Monday morning. Only four offenders answered the roll call, two plain drunks and two prowlers. They were given the customary fine and a good lecture besides by his honor, Mayor Ankele.

A colored man named Brown was taken into custody at the Hotel Warden on an assault and battery charge. His hearing will occur tomorrow morning.

HOLD UP WORKERS; KILL SALOONIST

Chicago, April 17.—Danel Myers, saloon proprietor, was shot dead and Ernest James, a negro porter, was fatally wounded today just after Myers had opened his saloon here. Three Italians entered and ordered them to hold up their hands. Thinking it a joke because he saw no weapons, Myers failed to comply and the men opened fire. No arrests have been made.

WHAT THE SCORES AND TABLES SHOW

The Cubs and Athletics, last year's world's championship participants, are the only teams that haven't won a game so far.

Gainor, Detroit's new first baseman, hasn't done anything with the bat yet.

Lajoie and Jackson are the only Clevelanders who are clouting the ball with regularity.

Big Ed. Walsh is starting out to repeat his record as the White Sox strong man, having pitched two of the four games.

Manager Bresnahan did his share to keep his team at the front by slamming out a double and a triple at Cincinnati.

Veteran Jimmy Callahan has been temporarily succeeded by young Meloan in the White Sox right field.

Brown's work in holding the Pirates to five hits indicates to the Cubs' rooters that the old star hasn't slipped back much.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR ATTEND SERVICES AT M. E. CHURCH

As is customary with te Knights Templar that organization attended Easter services in the East Main Street M. E. church in a body on Sunday evening. The Knights assembled and in full uniform marched to the church where Rev. Charles Laughlin preached a most eloquent sermon on "The Resurrection and the Life." There were fifty-two Knights in attendance and an especially attractive musical program was given.

In keeping with an old custom the Knights attend religious services en masse on Easter and Ascension Day. This will be carried out this year on Ascension Day, but the place has not yet been decided upon.

FUNERAL OF JOSEPH E. JONES.

The funeral of Joseph E. Jones, who died at his home, 225 West Locust street, Saturday morning at 11:15 o'clock, after an illness of nine weeks with an abscess of the lungs, was held from his late home Monday afternoon, and was under the auspices of the U. V. L. and Olive Branch Lodge of Odd Fellows, with which he was affiliated. The burial was made in Cedar Hill cemetery.

WHY A RESURRECTION

The Resurrection Doctrine Peculiar to Christianity, but Known to No Other.

What If the Dead Should Not Rise, Would This Affect Christian Faith and Doctrines and Prove Them All False?

PASTOR RUSSELL PROVES IT SO

London, April 16.—The London Tabernacle was crowded to hear Pastor Russell's Easter sermon on "The Resurrection Hope the Only One." His text was from 1 Corinthians xv, 12-18:—

"How say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead? * * * If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain and your faith is also vain. * * * Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished." He said:—

For years God's people have had excellent Bibles, and thus have been blessed far in advance of our brethren who lived during the Dark Ages. But we have read our Bibles too carelessly and often have most of us wondered at the great stress St. Paul laid upon the resurrection. Rarely is the subject preached upon now and rarely is it ever thought of except as an absurdity. The reason for this is not far to seek. From childhood we have been taught that nobody is dead—that in dying everybody, good and bad, becomes more alive than ever before; that this aliveness, to the saintly few, means spiritual powers and an immediate entrance into heaven, death being swallowed up in life. The unsaintly masses also, we are told, have quickened sensibilities after dying—they become more alive, more able to appreciate and suffer pain.

Our Catholic neighbors tell us that the majority immediately go to Purgatory, there to be tried by various sufferings and tortures, and later, enter heaven. Our Protestant teachings have been to the effect that the unsaintly masses, unfit for the presence of God and the holy, will be consigned to an eternity of awful torture and made very much more alive to suffering than before. Thus we have been taught to believe that death is a portal or door into an intenser life—that nobody is dead. Many of us perplexed ourselves, and were perplexed by others, with questions respecting how there could be a "resurrection of the dead" if nobody is dead. We avoided the question, or gave the answer, "Mystery; go run and play."

Some, indeed, attempted a patchwork of the matter and told us that those in heaven were happy, but not so happy as though they had bodies and that after thousands of years of craving for a body (which they had used for only a few years), they would get it back again for all eternity. Others said, "No, our bodies have been only a clog and a hindrance and from the moment of death we will be better off without them; and we do not know why the Bible should teach a resurrection of the dead, to get back bodies that we would be glad to be rid of." Respecting the wicked, we said that after roasting for centuries without a body, then, to intensify their pain, the body would be resurrected and they would have double suffering. What bosh! What foolishness! Is it any wonder that many of the bright minds of the world learned to doubt everything connected with religion and the Bible? Rather the wonder is that, seeing things so obscurely, we did not all repudiate everything.

Now What Do We Find?

With the clearing of the mists of ignorance and superstition, with a better light reflected from one page to another of the Bible, the resurrection subject clarifies and the statements of Jesus and the Apostles and Prophets, which we thought so strange, become luminous and soul-satisfying.

When once we see that "the wages of sin is death" and not eternal torment; and that the Bible hell is the tomb and not a fiery furnace; and that all mankind go to sheol, to hades, just as did our Savior; then we begin to see that what we all need is to be saved from sheol, from hades, as was the Savior. A resurrection-salvation is thus the salvation hope of the Church and of the world.

What a relief this gives us as respects parents, children, neighbors, friends and the heathen, who have died out of Christ, unsaintly! What comfort it brings to know that they are sleeping in the great prison-house of death, unconscious of the lapse of time, waiting for the Redeemer, Who will as King set up His Kingdom in glory, associating His Bride with Himself for the blessing of all the families of the earth. The bringing forth of the prisoners out of the prison-house of death will be to set before them under the glorious provisions of the New Dispensation an opportunity for life everlasting, by obedience to the laws of the Kingdom under the assistance of the Heavenly One—the alternative being, not eternal torment, but death—Second Death.

All Souls Go to Sheol.

Some one may say, "Pastor Russell, what about the soul? If the body goes to sheol, hades, the tomb, where goes the soul?" I reply that it is the soul that goes to sheol, to hades, the grave, the tomb, the state of death. Although the words sheol and hades are translated grave more times than translated hell, nevertheless they refer, not to the mound of earth, which is in the nature of a monument, but to the secret, hidden condition, preferably styled the tomb, the abyss.

The Prophet David wrote, "Thou wilt not leave my soul in sheol (the tomb, the state of death), nor suffer Thine Holy One to see corruption" (Psalm xvi, 10). St. Peter quoted this on the day of Pentecost and explained that it is a prophecy in respect to Christ Jesus. David's soul was not delivered from sheol, and he did see corruption, and his sepulchre the Apostle could refer to. But he, being a Prophet, spoke those words respecting Jesus, that His soul would not be left in sheol; that His soul would not see corruption. St. Peter says that this prophecy was fulfilled in our Lord—in that He was raised from the dead on the third day. He tells us that Jesus was put to death in the flesh, but quickened in spirit—a spirit Being far above angels and principalities and powers and every name that is named. Our Common Version Bible declares that our Lord's soul was saved from hell—hades (Acts ii, 27-31).

David, in the Old Testament, used the word sheol. St. Peter, in the New Testament, used the word hades. There is no dispute amongst scholars as to what is signified. The words sheol and hades are well known to refer, not to a place of suffering or torture or animation of any kind, but to the unconsciousness of the death state. Jesus arose from the dead, from hades, the grave, and not from a place of torment. The so-called Apostles' Creed declares that Jesus descended into hell, but arose from the dead on the third day. All scholars know that nothing in the words sheol and hades has any relationship to fire or pain or suffering or consciousness, and thus this phrase of the Apostles' Creed is universally explained.

As Jesus descended into hades, so do all mankind. As the Father raised Him from the dead on the third day, so it is promised that He will raise us, the Church, from the dead. More than this, the unjust also, those who have not been approved of God in the present life, shall all be awakened from the sleep of death. They will come forth informed respecting sin, having lived under the reign of Sin and Death. They will come forth that they may learn the ways of righteousness, the reward of which is life everlasting. The glorified Jesus and His glorified Church, the Bride, will be the Royal Priesthood, whose special work for a thousand years will be the uplifting of mankind, not only from the tomb, but also to perfection of life, "every man in his own order" or rank. The uplifting will bless as many as are willing, lifting them from the degradation and meanness and imperfection into which all have fallen by one man's disobedience, under the laws of heredity.

Burst the Bars of Death.

In the poetic language of the hymn, Christ Jesus "burst the bars of death" in His resurrection. It was not possible for Him to be holden of death, writes the Apostle (Acts ii, 24). The Divine verdict went forth that He had been faithful and that to Him should come the reward of life upon the highest plane—the divine nature (Ephesians i, 20, 21).

Our fancies may legitimately picture that the holy angels marveled at the Redeemer's experiences from the time that He left the heavenly glory and was made flesh and dwelt amongst us until, by His resurrection change, He returned again from the earthly nature to the heavenly plane, "far above angels." As they sang at His nativity a rapturous song of glad tidings of great joy to all people, so they were filled with amazement, surely, at how the Father permitted Him to be tempted and tried and poured for Him His cup of suffering, which He drained to the dregs. They marveled when "He died, the Just for the unjust." They looked and wondered, as hour after hour He remained in the tomb—dead. Their loyalty to the Heavenly Father was tested during that period, but was rewarded when they beheld that Divine power raised Him up even to a more excellent glory than that which He had before.

With what alacrity the angels must have acknowledged the risen One, in harmony with the Father's declaration, "Let all the angels of God worship Him." "Worthy is the Lamb to receive glory and honor, dominion, might and power." The point to be specially noticed is the change of nature which our Redeemer experienced in His resurrection. That change did not take place during the three days of Jesus' burial, but during the three and a half years of His ministry, which ended with His resurrection. When thirty years of age He gave Himself—He surrendered His earthly privileges and rights and hopes into the Father's hands, to be obedient to everything which Divine providence might permit. At that moment His sacrifice of His flesh was accepted. The evidence of its acceptance was the impartation of the Holy Spirit, which as a dove rested upon Him and exercised a quickening and illuminating influence upon His mind, enabling Him to understand more than human things and to perform more than human acts.

It was Jesus, a New Creature, begotten of the Spirit at Jordan, that did the mighty works of the Father. His flesh, His humanity, was gradually laid down sacrificially, in harmony with the Divine providences. He drank "the cup" which the Father poured for Him.

Divine Power "Brought From the Dead the Great Shepherd."

This Easter Sunday celebrates the momentous event of our Lord's resurrection from the dead. His resurrection is either a truth or a falsehood. In our text St. Paul assures us that if it is untrue, our faith, our hopes, our preaching and teachings are of no avail—useless. If the resurrection of the dead is impossible, then the resurrection of Jesus was impossible. If the resurrection of Jesus did not take place, then we have no proof, and no ground for believing, that Divine power could resurrect the Church. If Divine Power "brought again from the dead the great Shepherd of the sheep," it is Jehovah also who will bring us from the dead by Jesus, in God's due time.

Let none avoid the question! Let all decide at once: Either we believe in a resurrection from the dead, or we do not believe in it. If the resurrection be a myth then, says the Apostle, all those who fell asleep with faith in Christ are perished—they are not in heaven, Purgatory nor eternal torment. If we believe in the resurrection of the dead, both of the just and the unjust, then, logically, we must believe that they are dead, except in the Divine promise, purpose, arrangement. The decision of this resurrection question is a most momentous one, as it affects practically every doctrine of the Christian Church. If we get straight the doctrine of the Ransom effected through the Redeemer, and the doctrine of the Resurrection of the dead, all of our doctrines will fall into line, and all of our absurdities, which have troubled us so long, will fall out of the way, and all of the Scriptures will be found harmonious in teaching Divine Justice, Wisdom, Love and Power.

Christ the First-Fruits.

"But now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first-fruits of them that slept" (verse 20). Ah, thank God, the Apostle did not mean to insinuate the possibility of our Lord's not having risen. Merely, he would put the question that we might see how weighty is the subject—how much depends on the answer. He exultantly answers, "Christ is risen!" We rejoice in this for several reasons. First, how sad it would be if He who laid aside His glory and was made flesh and tasted death on our behalf should have lost by His loyal endeavor to serve us and to do the Father's will! How glad we are that He is risen, and that He was not raised again in the flesh, with the loss of His heavenly glory, but raised as the King of all, far above all others, and partaker of the divine nature!

Secondly, we are glad on our own account, and on account of all mankind; for if our Lord Jesus had not been raised from the dead it would have proven one of two things—either that He had not been faithful—up to the Divine standard, and therefore that His life could not be a satisfaction for the human life lost in Adam, or else it would have proved that God, who had promised to raise Him from the dead if He would be obedient unto death, had been unable to do so; and, if unable to raise Him from the dead, we, likewise, would be without hope, even if our sins were cancelled by virtue of His sacrifice.

The Apostle's words give a further suggestion: Our Lord in His resurrection became "the first-fruits of them that slept." This signifies that none was ever raised from the dead before Him. As another Scripture declares, "He was the first that should arise from the dead." There were indeed others awakened from the tomb, by Jesus Himself and also previous to His Advent. But they were merely awakened, not lifted fully up out of death conditions to perfect life. The Redeemer was the first to have such an experience. But the Apostle's words mean more. If Jesus was the first-fruits of them that slept, there must of necessity be after-fruits. And this the Apostle proceeds to prove, declaring that "as all in Adam die, even so all in Christ shall be made alive" (I Corinthians xv, 22). Glorious resurrection hope! Precious Bible! The one Book alone which teaches a resurrection of the dead, or that the dead are dead.

The Apostle proceeds to tell us that the dead will not all be resurrected together—at once—"but every man in his own order" (I Corinthians xv, 23). The first order or rank will be the Church. Blessed and holy are all they that have part in the First Resurrection; * * * they shall be priests of God and of Christ and shall reign with Him a thousand years (Revelation xx, 6).

This work of raising the dead will be the work of the entire reign of Messiah, as explained in our context: Christ must reign until He shall have put all enemies under His feet—the last enemy will be death. As during the Mediatorial reign mankind shall rise up out of their ignorance, weakness, sin, depravity, they will be coming out of death conditions into life conditions; they will be in process of raising up—resurrection.

This does not prove, however, that all of Adam's race will receive the gift of God, eternal life, but it does prove that all will be blessed with the opportunity of attaining that glorious reward. Whoever, after having the release from death put within his grasp, shall decline eternal life on the Divine terms will die again, but not because of Adam's sin—it will not be the Adamic death. That Second Death will be complete destruction. Those sinners will die the Second Death without hope of further redemption or resurrection.

THE ANNUAL MAY FESTIVAL AT GRANVILLE

Granville, April 17.—Great preparations are being made for the annual May Festival and some extraordinary attractions have been secured, among them being the St. Paul Symphony Orchestra, one of the greatest organizations of the kind in the world. The organization will make a trip into Western Canada, just previous to coming here. The St. Paul Orchestra announces this tour as "Musical Reciprocity Tour," between Canada and the United States. They will return east the first of May and will be heard in Granville on May 19th with the Engwerson Choral Society. Madame Rothwell-Wolff, the operetic soprano, who will also be heard here in the May Festival with this great orchestra, is the wife of Conductor Rothwell. Madame Rothwell first met Mr. Rothwell when she was singing the title role in the English production of "Madam Butterfly, of which production he was the conductor. Her operatic career was cut short by her marriage, though she received offers which would have tempted the average singer to accept, in lieu of the more domestic engagement of becoming the wife of one of the world's famous conductors. Mme. Rothwell has received many flattering offers to go back into opera but has declined, preferring to do her work with the orchestra and the concert field. It is due to the fact that she is still on her "Honey Moon" that she will be heard in Granville.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ashton, Mr. Fred Ashton, Mrs. Nicholas Emmert, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Goff and Mrs. E. C. Norris attended the funeral of John Larimore at Granville last week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Howard, who a number of years ago lived in Granville township, a short distance south of the village, but who have been making their home in Iowa for the past twenty years, visited in and around Granville last week.

At the funeral of Thomas Richards last week, there were quite a number of relatives and friends from a distance in attendance. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, silently testifying to the esteem in which the deceased was held. The burial was made in the Welsh Hills cemetery.

Next Friday the Denison Glee club, twenty strong, will go to Columbus, where it will give its annual concert in the First Baptist church of that city, under the auspices of the Baptist Young Peoples Union and with the support of the Columbus-Denison club of alumni and former students. Governor and Mrs. Harmon have been invited and all the old "grads" are expected to be present and give the boys a welcome and to renew their college spirit as they listen to the melody and humor. At the conclusion of the program there will be a reception in the parlors of the church and the young women will furnish light refreshments

The annual home concert of the Denison University Glee club will be given in the Opera House on Thursday evening, April 20th, 1911. The club has just returned from an extended trip through the east, which took in eight of the leading cities of that part of the country. Musical critics give Denison's glee club first place among the clubs of this section of the Middle West. The fact that each of the places that the club visited this year has asked the boys for a return engagement, is the best advertisement they can get. Music lovers of Granville and vicinity cannot afford to miss this opportunity to hear the best glee club that has ever gone out from the university and one that deserves the highest credit and comment.

Mrs. Claudia Stiner has returned from Carey, O., where she has been visiting the family of Mrs. Stiner.

After a short but pleasant visit with relatives and friends in the village, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Williams have returned to their home in Allegheny City, Pa.

Miss Minerva Vandenbark has gone to Alexandria where she expects to spend the summer with her grandmother, Mrs. Lyman Bafner.

Mr. Thomas Keller of Newark spent Sunday in Granville.

On Saturday, April 15, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Andrews, a short distance south of the village, a very pleasant surprise was given Henry Andrews, a brother of the host, who is visiting there, and who is well known by many in that vicinity. The gathering was in celebration of his twenty-second birthday anniversary, and quite a number of his friends were present. Instrumental and vocal music furnished entertainment for the party. A delicious lunch was a feature of the occasion.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

PREDICT FINE SEASON ALONG BUCKEYE LAKE

(Buckeye Lake Breeze.)

There are many reasons to predict a great season for Buckeye Lake during the summer of 1911.

The lake never looked more beautiful than it does at the present time. Filled and overflowing with fresh clear water from the farm lands surrounding and free from stumps and floaters it is a sight to fill the hearts of yachtsmen and motor boatmen with joy. Channels may be abandoned and all the crafts floating on the lake may be piloted anywhere with safety. No need to know the lake to navigate its waters. Drunk or sober or dressed up you will be safe afloat so long as you keep your seat and watch your supply of gasoline. Those who this early have tried out their boats can hardly be restrained from becoming "regulars" and remain throughout the season.

Things are looking good about the entire shore line; new cottages going up, new piers being built, new boats being launched. Flowers are being planted everywhere.

There will be plenty of amusement for everyone. Billy Hoover will open the Park Rink at an early date. The park proper promises to be more attractive than ever and a number of amusement features will be introduced that will especially appeal to the little folks. The Yacht club will announce in a few weeks a series of races that will out class anything offered in inter-lake circles. The club has had deeded to them the following trophies: Chittenden Hotel Trophy, by the Chittenden Hotel Co.; Washington Brewery Co., by the Washington Brewery Co.; F. and R. Lazarus Trophy, by F. and R. Lazarus; Goodman Trophy, by Goodman Bros.; W. F. Andrus Trophy, by W. F. Andrus. These trophies will be contested for during the season.

Not only will the lake offer recreation and amusement but entertainment and instruction. These features will be directed by the Baptist Assembly committee of the Ohio Baptist convention who have decided to transfer the assembly from Mt. Vernon to Summerland Beach. A fine program is in preparation.

Judging from the large number who are already at the lake we predict an early opening of cottages and a long season.
